BOMB FOUND AT BASE OF QUEBEC MONUMENT

QUEBEC (CP)—Ten sticks of dynamite, bundled together and attached to a 10-foot fuse, were discovered today at the foot of the Boer War Monument, just inside the walls of Quebec City and in sight of the Legislature Building.

A home-made bomb was found at the same spot last weekend.

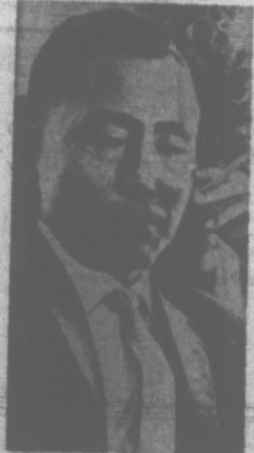

Police said the dynamite sticks were tied together with string and wrapped in a piece of cloth.

Apparently, police said, no attempt had been made to light the fuse. There was a detonator cap on the package.

PUBLISHER SPEAKS:

One Defence Head Wrong

OTTAWA (CP)—Richard S. Malone, publisher of the Winnipeg Free Press and a wartime brigadier, said today integration of the defence headquarters-command structure is tremendously forward-looking but may be jeopardized by the "supreme principle" of a single chief of staff.

He told the Commons defence committee that the armed forces can be more effectively directed by a civilian-military defence council than by a single officer. The council should be directly under the minister instead of the chief of the defence staff.

Mr. Malone, one-time special assistant to the late Col. J. L. Ralston, wartime defence minister, said: "If you start off with this one error, the whole system could break down."

No committee members disputed his view. Mr. Malone was left cooling his heels for 33 minutes before the 24-member committee got a quorum of 13 to begin the hearing.

Mr. Malone said that to establish anything in the nature of a commander-in-chief, regardless of title, would be a fatal error.

CREATE A 'GOD'
Creation of a single chief might be creation of a "god" for the armed forces. The single chief might gather only yes-men around him and, no matter how able, make serious errors of judgment.

The job was far too big for any one person.

Defence decisions and authority should be based on a defence council of civilian and military personnel with the minister participating in the decisions and answerable to parliament for them.

Mr. Malone said the commander-in-chief system has failed repeatedly in recent years in Canada and elsewhere.

Gen. A. C. L. McNaughton had been such a powerful figure during the war that the government had some hesitancy about vetoing actions it felt should be vetoed.

LT-Gen. Guy Simonds had not been made chief of the general staff at the end of the war because the government feared he would prove too difficult and autocratic.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur had had to be removed from command in Korea because he had become such a dominant figure he could dispute the authority of the U.S. president.

"Bucking the hierarchy of the Canadian army is a very tough thing," Mr. Malone said.

Deportation Stalled
MONTREAL (CP)—The scheduled deportation of Joseph Bonanno, alias Joe Bonanno, linked with the Cosa Nostra crime syndicate in the United States, was halted at least temporarily today when his lawyers gave notice they will apply for a writ of habeas corpus.

He wore the water-cooled underwear under a cumbersome and heavy Mercury space suit. Despite the brisk walk and the heavy clothing, his skin temperature stayed at 82 degrees, nine degrees below normal, which was satisfactory.

HOW COULD WILD, BACKWARD MAN GET SO FAR?
'Neanderthal' Barry Scares Europe

LONDON (AP)—Senator Barry Goldwater's Republican primary victory in California brought disapproval and dismay in the European press today.

"It is not important who finally stops Barry, but who made it possible for him to go all that way," says the Christian Democrat Volkskrant of Amsterdam.

"Goldwater is proof of a not completely sound political climate," the paper says editorially that Goldwater's victory is "a symptom of degeneration and devaluation in the Republican party."

The British view was summed up by The Times which says: "The thought that he had even the faintest chance of reaching the White House would be enough to shake faith in the maturity and stability of American politics."

"The sight of a major party endorsing and promoting a man so blatantly out of touch with reality, so wild in his foreign policy, so backward in his domestic ideas and so inconsistent in his thinking, would be a serious blow to American prestige abroad."

The Guardian says that if Goldwater wins the Republican presidential nomination "that in itself would damage the good name of the United States and thus set back the interests of the whole Western world."

The Glasgow Herald calls some of Goldwater's policies "stupid to a degree that is hardly credible."

Another view came from the Paris Aurore, which groups the Goldwater victory with indications of "America taking a firmer attitude toward communism."

The middle-road provincial paper Paris Normandie said Goldwater's victory showed "there is an important fraction of Americans who are attracted by the policy of force."

Italian papers had headlines telling of a strong shift to the right in the Republicans. Rome's Avanti, socialist party organ, asked: "A fascist adversary for Johnson?"

In Moscow, the Soviet newspaper Literary Gazette compared Goldwater's career to that of Hitler.

"At the beginning," the paper says, "Hitler also wasn't taken very seriously and this was very expensive to mankind."

The paper's article was published under a large headline: "Career of Neanderthal Man."

SEIZED BY BRITISH in Bahamas waters off Anguilla Cay Monday, these members of an apparent anti-Castro raiding party were photographed as they disembarked from the destroyer Decoy at Nassau Wednesday. Only one identified is American freelance photographer Andrew St. George, in light shirt. Rebel leader Manolo Ray was reported among the captured Cubans. They were fined, freed. (AP Wirephoto.)

Odds on Major Flood 'Ten to One Against'

BIG BRASS BOYCOTTS D-DAY RITES

OMAHA BEACH, France (UPI)—Thousands of Canadian, British and American war veterans converged on the Normandy beaches today for two days of ceremonies commemorating the 20th anniversary of the D-Day-June 6, 1944, landings.

French President Charles de Gaulle, who was not let in on the secrets of Allied invasion planning, will not be present. He was sending two French cabinet ministers to represent him.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, the men who led the invasion forces, also were not attending.

Major concern now is whether or not the Fraser River will flood its banks in the Lower Mainland.

Mr. Williston said current flooding is mostly localized and in areas which get flooded every year.

"The major problem areas are the Kootenays and the lower Fraser," he said.

"The situation doesn't give us cause for alarm yet."

"Chances of a flood of major proportions are reduced to about one in 10," he said.

Mr. Williston said this chance gets longer every day.

The only thing that could reverse the situation, he added, would be a period of "hot rain"—very warm temperatures and plenty of rain.

The level of the Fraser continues to rise at Prince George with high temperatures forecast for the interior today.

However, cooler air is expected in the area tonight.

The highways department said that the Bulkley River has dropped a foot at Smithers and the Skeena at Kitwanga is down 14 inches from Wednesday.

Highway 14—only east-west route across the northern half of the province—is cut by floods 80 miles west of Smithers and the Canadian National Railway line is also washed out a further 10 miles west.

The Nechako River overflowed its banks near Prince George Wednesday closing a school at Cottonwood Island and forcing residents to evacuate their homes.

Three families have been evacuated at Terrace and 30 more are preparing to leave.

Six families left their homes near Merritt when the Coldwater River swept away a farmhouse and a barn.

At the Portage Mountain dam site on the Peace River 30 trucks were called in to move 70,000 tons of sand which the rising river threatens to wash away.

The sand is for footings of the dam.

Resources Minister Ray Williston said today the chances of a major B.C. flood are 10 to one against and lessening every day.

He made the statement despite growing concern about flooding in north central B.C.

Flooding on the Skeena and Bulkley rivers has cut roads and rail lines and forced evacuations and closing of schools.

However, provincial officials believe these two rivers may now have reached their crests and the water is already receding.

YEOVILTON, Eng.—Prince Philip was wearing the full dress uniform of an admiral of the fleet—blue frock coat, gold braid, medals.

But it was the wrong uniform for the golden jubilee Air Arm.

All 70 senior officers present were wearing what's known as No. 5 rig, no medals. Philip's rig was No. 1.

Who goofed? A palace spokesman said Philip "was definitely advised to wear uniform No. 1."

"It was common knowledge here for several days that officers would be wearing No. 5 dress on the parade," said Capt. Terence Percy, commander at Yeovilton.

Philip salvaged his dignity and that of the others. He changed into civvies.

OTTAWA—President Eamon de Valera of Ireland, a spry 81-year-old, stuck it in the eye of the British Wednesday in an off-the-cuff speech to the Canadian Club.

"They used us as a cheap ranch," he said.

Two places down the head table, Sir Henry Lintott, British high commissioner to Canada, remained impassive.

Mr. de Valera, who later departed by air for Boston, said "Britain was having it for us in both ways"—as a cheap ranch for food and as a market for industrial goods.

BUENOS AIRES—The government has decreed meatless Mondays and Tuesdays in Argentina, traditionally one of the world's major beef producers, in an effort to build up the nation's herds.

A decree forbids the sale of meat either in butcher shops or restaurants on Mondays and Tuesdays. Since butcher shops here normally closed Sundays, an Argentine family that does not plan ahead could find itself facing the prospect of a long meatless weekend.

MANCHESTER, Eng.—"Will thou have this woman to thy wedded wife?" asked Rev. George Shaw.

"No," said 27-year-old David Swindell, and walked out of the Congregational Church Wednesday.

The bride, blonde Diane Garden, burst into tears.

The minister shepherded the weeping bride and her father into the vestry, then ran after the bridegroom.

After a while the minister came back and told the guests:

"There will be no wedding today."

"I don't want to talk about it," said David at his home later.

Diane's parents took her home.

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—Longshoremen started unloading cases of Scotch whisky from the Swedish freighter Portland but noticed something missing—the usual juggle of sloshing alcohol.

Officers of the vessel pried open one of the cases. Someone had substituted cases of peaches and pears for the Scotch.

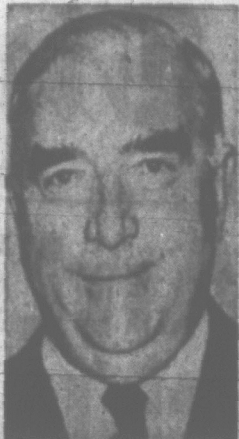

Officials said the vessel had docked in Gothenburg, Sweden, and Helsinki, Finland, before arriving here.

SHAWINIGAN, Que.—Everybody gave Rene La Courriere a big welcome when he walked into his aunt's home.

But the words of greeting were strange. "Go away, don't come in. You're dead, you're dead. We buried you Monday," a bevy of relatives shouted.

Authorities decided to exhume the body, pulled from the St. Lawrence River, and identified by Lacourriere's brother and brother-in-law as being his. Lacourriere had taken a job in the bush April 25 without telling anybody.

He was told he had a hang-up funeral—150 persons attended and $75 was collected for 25 masses.

SUFFERING from bad attack of influenza, Australian Prime Minister Sir Robert Menzies has been ordered to bed. Aides said, however, the illness probably would not stop him from leaving next month for visits to Israel, Washington and London.

LOCAL BRIEFS

The regular meeting of the Black Watch Association (Vancouver Island branch) will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Britannia branch, Royal Canadian Legion, 1616 Blanshard Street.

F. P. (Jem) Gowan won the McGowan Cup in the impromptu speakoff at Monday night's meeting of the Speaker's Forum, the alumni of the Dale Carnegie Course. Runners-up were Don Campbell and Bruce Campbell. The club will resume its activities on September 21.

Winners in the Monthly Point Tournament of the Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club were:

Section A, North-South: 1, Joan Smith and Tony Marsh; 2, Dorothy McConnell and Lillian LeButt; 3 (tie), Pat Bishop and Gwen Brown, Gwen Graham and Laura Tingley.

2. Constituency—appointed delegates to a national convention: This now is provided for in the Liberal federation constitution.

CHANGES MADE

2. A convention-endorsed leadership: The Liberal party leader already is elected by a national convention. The constitution was changed at the council meeting to provide also for convention election of the national president and vice-presidents, previously elected by the council.

4. Policy to be controlled by a national convention: The council established a permanent policy committee to which policy matters are to be referred by constituency organizations. It left undecided whether the committee must report to the national convention or the smaller national council. Informants said this is likely to be discussed further at a national convention in January or February.

5. Provision for affiliation by unions: This was not dealt with on the floor of the national council meeting but also may be raised at the next national convention.

Informants say the long-term move toward merger has not been discussed at the top since last February but they say there has been a tendency by some people in both parties to accent similarities of policy publicly and privately.

Two Miners Killed

Red Restoration Price for Peace

TOKYO (AP)—Pro-Communist Prince Souphavong insisted again today that he will agree to peace talks only if Premier Souvanna Phouma throws out leaders of the rightist coup of April 19 and restores the pro-Communist Pathet Lao to its former role in the Laotian coalition government.

The New China news agency said the Pathet Lao leader listed these conditions for talks with the neutralist premier:

1. Repeal of the order assigned other officials to cabinet posts formerly held by Pathet Lao ministers and disident neutralist ministers.

2. Dissolution of the revolutionary committee which staged the right-wing military coup April 19.

3. Severe punishment of the coup leaders.

4. Restoration of the situation to the status quo before the coup.

ETHIOPIAN ENVOY SHOT BY CHAUFFEUR

STOCKHOLM (AP)—The Ethiopian ambassador to Sweden was shot and severely wounded today by his Polish chauffeur, Stockholm police reported.

The police said Ambassador Abate Agede was hit by three revolver bullets. The shooting occurred in a Stockholm street.

A police spokesman said the chauffeur, whose name was withheld, had received orders from the ambassador which he refused to obey. During the argument, the Pole suddenly drew his revolver and fired three shots, the spokesman said.

TOURISTS OF WEEK

Mr. and Mrs. X To Become VIPs

Although they don't know it, Mr. and Mrs. X will be V.I.P.s this weekend. For on Saturday they will become Victoria's Tourist of the Week.

Who are Mr. and Mrs. X? Where will they come from? Even Victoria Jaycees, who are sponsoring the Tourist of the Week program, don't know the answer to that one.

They will not find out until Saturday when two Jaycees go over to Tsawwassen to select the lucky winners for the first week of the program.

SELECT AT RANDOM

The two will select a couple at random, determining the distance they have travelled by the car registration plates.

Then the couple will have a questionnaire to complete, telling why they are visiting Victoria.

If they meet all requirements they will be the Jaycees' guests for the entire weekend.

Motels and hotels will be provided free, meals have been laid on, and they will be given a conducted tour of the main places of interest.

GO DANCING

In the evening they will be taken dancing after a restaurant supper and cocktails.

Victoria stores and businesses have agreed to cooperate by giving gifts to the couple when they call.

Special notices have been prepared to place in windows and on counters of businesses co-operating in the venture.

Test Driving Motorcyclist Found Trouble

A motorcycle mechanic was fined $100 in city police court this morning for driving while under suspension.

William Lloyd, 534 Simcoe, pleaded guilty to the charge.

Court was told Lloyd was seen riding a motorcycle along the sidewalk, and was stopped by a constable just as he turned out onto the street.

Lloyd said he had been in a parking lot testing a motorcycle to see what was wrong with it.

Columbia Pact Enters Last Parliamentary Step

By ARCH MACKENZIE

OTTAWA (CP)—The Columbia River treaty, representing an often-troubled 20 years of Canada-United States negotiation, was launched Wednesday on the final parliamentary step to ratification.

It was to continue before the Commons today in the shape of a government resolution that the power and flood-control project—ravalling the St. Lawrence Seaway in cost—be approved once and for all.

But the New Democrats indicated Wednesday they will continue to buck it down the line and at least one amendment was expected to be moved today.

The government's position, even in the prolonged scrutiny of more than 100 hours by the external affairs committee, is that any change will be a test of confidence in the government.

ONLY NDPs OBJECT

Since only the New Democrats oppose the 1961 treaty and the protocol of last January, the government is safe.

External Affairs Minister Martin made a short speech Wednesday in introducing the Columbia resolution. He called the 50-session external affairs committee's study of the issue one of the most thorough in Canadian parliamentary history.

The treaty was no second-best arrangement and it would be folly not to approve the scheme, he said.

Stuart Fleming, Conservative spokesman from the British Columbia riding of Okanagan-Revelstoke, took much the same line. But he said the Liberal government had swung round to approve the 1961 treaty that the Conservatives had negotiated and he also paid tribute to Columbia critics as sincere in their beliefs.

Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) said he knows the Columbia decision has been made but his party hopes by maintaining opposition to the last gasp to make sure that future similar Canadian projects offer more safeguards.

Militia Shakeup Coming

By DAVE MCINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — Associate Defence Minister Lucien Carlin is getting set to carry out the biggest shakeup of the 51,000-member militia in a decade.

One of the pieces of information spurring him on, informants say, is the discovery by the committee looking into militia organization that some reserve army units comprise no more than two officers and six men—complete with drill hall and mess.

The committee is headed by Brig. Earle R. Suttie of Montreal and its report will be made to the minister this month.

Informants said Mr. Carlin will act on some committee recommendations immediately with the objective of reducing militia strength to some 20,000 and thus saving some $10,000,000 annually.

Mr. Carlin is also looking at the possibilities of the army, navy and RCAF reserves using the same quarters in cities and towns where two or more are located. In the past, each reserve unit has had its own premises.

RCAF CUT

The RCAF has already cut its auxiliaries drastically in line with the defence department's avowed aim last December to reduce air force reserve strength to 860 from 2,200.

The RCAF auxiliaries now are down to 1,100 personnel and to six squadrons from 10. The reserve squadrons at Vancouver, Calgary, Saskatoon and Hamilton were eliminated, leaving two each at Montreal and Toronto and one each at Winnipeg and Edmonton.

Naval reserve strength has been reduced to 3,330 from 3,600 but likely will be cut further to some 2,700. Two reserve units at Prince Rupert and Toronto have been disbanded.

The fate of naval reserve units at Edmonton, Regina, London, Kitchener, and Charlotte-town still is unresolved pending a recommendation from the Suttie committee on common use of quarters by both militia and naval reserve units at these locations.

SAVE $5,000,000

The RCAF and naval reserve cuts will save some $5,000,000 a year.

Mr. Carlin is expected to order, before the end of the summer, the amalgamation of many militia units.

In Victoria there are six army reserve units of 500 men in 25 Militia Group serving all of Vancouver Island.

The navy has retained HMCS Malahat reserve unit at HMCS Naden and there is no RCAF reserve unit here.

YM-YWCA CAMPAIGN

'Clean-Up Canvass' Gets Going Saturday

Rising building costs have forced YM-YWCA building fund officials to campaign for nearly a quarter of a million dollars in additional funds.

The "clean-up canvass" will begin Saturday with advertisements in local newspapers containing pledge cards for the use of citizens who wish to donate.

"We never did make a general appeal to the public and we want to give the thousands and thousands of people in Victoria a chance to contribute," said campaign chairman Hugh Stephen.

"We don't mind what the gift is—whether it's 50 cents or $50,000."

Original construction estimates have risen from $1,138,666 to $1,347,000. About $1,110,000 has already been raised leaving a difference of $237,000.

The original campaign was launched in February of 1963. "Y" officials today said they could have cut out some parts of the building to save money but decided it would be a "breach of faith" to those who have already contributed.

Mr. Stephen said this campaign is aimed at people who were missed in the original canvass and those who said they would add to their donation if more was needed.

WON'T ASK TWICE

"But we are not going back to those who gave so generously in the first campaign," he added.

There are two reasons "Y" officials wish to erect a debt-free building.

First, a new building will attract many new "Y" members and increased services will add to operating costs.

"We don't want our operating revenues to be saddled with debt repayment charges," Mr. Stephen said.

Secondly, the provincial government will increase its $50,000 pledge to $75,000 if the building is debt-free after the five-year pledge period.

A cornerstone laying ceremony for the new building, due for completion this time next year, will be held late this month or early July.

Building plans include a 25-metre swimming pool, gymnasium, 40-bed women's residence, lounges, game rooms and meeting rooms.

Military Obsolete In Chemical Warfare

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—The threat of biological and nuclear weapons has made the traditional patterns of war obsolete, Dr. Brock Chisholm, a Victoria psychiatrist and world health expert, said Wednesday.

He told final sessions of a Chemical Institute of Canada conference that military might would be useless when about five ounces of a biological chemical strategically used could wipe out an entire civilization.

Noting overkill capabilities of nuclear weapons, he said there now is the equivalent of 30 tons of TNT in nuclear stockpiles for every man, woman and child on earth.

Dr. Chisholm, a panelist discussing the role of science in society, said talk of biological weapons "makes the generals feel more incompetent than they are, and it hurts the feelings of the militarists who cannot control the weapons."

He warned that traditional ideas must be set aside if man is to survive the nuclear age. Man cannot follow his ancestor's policy of unconcern for other peoples.

He said man must be united to solve his mutual problems. The ability of individual groups or units to defend themselves has been lost.

Dr. Chisholm urged scientists to leave their laboratories long enough to establish a greater social understanding of the rest of the world.

Later, Dr. Raymond U. Lemieux of the University of Alberta was presented with an institute medal for his achievements in solving problems in the chemical synthesis of sugar.

Korea Facing Martial Law

SEOUL (AP) — Anti-government demonstrations erupted today in eight major cities and President Chung Hee Park's cabinet threatened to extend martial law from Seoul to all South Korea.

One of the demonstrations broke out in Seoul's nearby port of Incheon, not included in the martial law decree that had veteran troops keeping a lid on violence in Seoul.

About 1,000 students in Incheon demanded Park resign. Incheon high schools decided to close for three days, hoping tempers would cool.

The most violent demonstration hit the city of Kwangju, 165 miles south of Seoul. It was a small model of the rioting by 30,000 adults and students in Seoul Wednesday that injured more than 600 police and demonstrators and left 91 persons under arrest.

Police in Kwangju tried to scatter 6,000 students with tear gas after demonstrators hurled rocks and overran a police line. But some of the students managed to get through into the provincial government building and demanded to see the governor. The governor refused to meet them.

Demanding Park's resignation and an end to martial law in Seoul, the students threw rocks at the building, smashing 30 windows. In the battle with police, 20 demonstrators and 10 policemen were injured.

The spreading of the demonstrations to other cities north and south pointed up the rising threat to Park's regime, accused by the students of corruption and police state methods.

About 9,000 students took part in the other demonstrations at Chongju, 45 miles northeast of Seoul; Chongju, 60 miles south;

Taejon, 85 miles south; the big port of Pusan on the southeast coast where U.S. troops made their stand against the North Korean Communist invasion in 1950; the central city of Taegu, and the southwest port of Mokpo.

As the disorders spread, the cabinet held an emergency meeting. Later a cabinet spokesman warned that martial law would be extended to the rest of South Korea unless the demonstrations ended.

The Road to Washington

TEN DAYS AGO, THE NEW York Times ended an editorial on the popularity of President Johnson by noting that he had an excellent chance to set a record for electoral votes next November. And the paper closed by saying: "This will be doubly true if the Republicans resolve their indecision by putting all their faith in a candidate whose sole appeal is to those who believe America should move backward, rather than forward, in finding answers to the titanic problems of change."

No names were named, but the results in the California primary elections this week indicate that the Republicans have taken a major step towards just that situation. In supporting Senator Goldwater the California Republicans have put him 86 votes nearer to the 655 total he must have to secure the party's presidential nomination. He now can count on 436 delegates at the San Francisco convention in July, and is said to be in a good position to pick up the balance.

There is more to it than this, of course. Not all the delegates are irrevocably committed, and among the party leaders are strong elements which do not favor Senator Goldwater. But if there is to be a switch in the trend it will have to show soon, and other Republican aspirants will have to make their bids in earnest.

Being Republican presidential candidate, of course, does not mean that the presidency is won. In fact, in the case of Senator Goldwater, many even in his own party are convinced that his candidacy will guarantee a large Democratic victory.

Mr. Johnson, if chosen, will appear as a candidate who has inherited much of the mantle of the revered President Kennedy. He has continued Kennedy's domestic and foreign policies—the war on poverty and unemployment, the stimulation of production, the furtherance of legislation for racial equality, the hold-down on Premier Castro, the foreign aid programs, the encouraging approach to freer world trade, the open view of disarmament and co-existence with the Communist world.

These policies, not unanimously popular in the United States, at least attract the great mass of moderates, the peaceful, liberal-minded centre core of the population. Because of his appeal to the uncommitted section of the public which in most countries decides elections, Mr. Johnson enjoys a large backing quite apart from the convinced supporters of the Democratic Party.

If he and Senator Goldwater eventually face each other on the presidential hustings, Mr. Johnson can make much of his opponent's extremist views—his dangerous attitude on disarmament and East-West co-operation, his reactionary approach to racial equality, his isolationism in many fields, his recent advocacy of atomic bombing in Viet Nam.

There is considerable support for such views in the United States—that seems obvious from the primary results so far. But all who see great promise in today's more liberal approach to domestic and international problems hope that the United States will continue in the van of these movements, and that the country will have, during the next four years, a leader who will make this possible.

More People, More Consumers

THE CONSIDERABLE INCREASE in the numbers of immigrants to Canada in the first three months of this year, compared with the same period last year, is an indication that this country is regaining a measure of favor among people looking for a new life in a new land. It is also, undoubtedly, a reflection of the increased prosperity of the past year which has resulted in more job opportunities for newcomers.

The increase—from 13,410 persons to 17,546 persons—may also signal that this year will see a real revival of immigration to Canada harking back to the mid-fifties and before a combination of a business slump and a Conservative administration put the brakes on.

Looking back over the records of previous years it is seen that the usual pattern is for immigration in the second and third quarters of the year to be about double what it was in the first quarter and then to drop off slightly in the final quarter. If the pattern is maintained immigration should reach about 112,000, which is well above the average of 89,000 a year for the past five years. This, however, would still be away below the previous decade when Canada absorbed an average of 153,000 immigrants a year.

Rescue and a Cry of 'Wolf'

QUICK AND EFFECTIVE action by a picnicker at Thetis Lake avoided what might have been a major drowning tragedy involving a woman and two girls last weekend. The man rushed in and dragged the three from deep water where they were in difficulties. There were no warning signs in the area.

This is a precursor of similar events—some of which may not end so happily—predictable as more people enjoy the water during the summer.

The day before, a call was put in to city police, summoning them to Gonzales Bay, where a sailboat had overturned. As it happened, no one was in danger, but the officers were called on the assumption that a serious accident had occurred.

The two incidents underscore an important point in water safety. It is that people should be alert to mishaps involving others, but should know that others are in danger before they pull police away from duties at a time when the calls on them are heavy.

Every time help is summoned when it is not needed, the call has the effect of crying "Wolf." It is essential that judgment be shown in these cases. No delay is tolerable when a person is in danger of drowning. But a certain way to create disinterest in the safety of others is to call for aid when it is unnecessary.

In this part of Vancouver Island, with its sea coast and deep lakes, the public should understand that fact thoroughly and act accordingly.

Uniformity of Sentencing

CIRCUMSTANCES ALTER cases and modern penology seeks to make the treatment fit the criminal rather than the punishment fit the crime. At the same time there should be widespread interest throughout the country in efforts by members of Canada's judiciary in sessions at the University of Toronto to bring fairness and some uniformity into sentencing.

The apparent need is indicated in the wide difference in sentences passed not only by trial judges in different parts of the nation, but in various parts of a community.

Discussions of the subject by judges were held in camera at the University of Toronto sessions to permit free expression by delegates. It is safe to assume, however, that no attempt was made to lay down hard and fast terms, or fines, for specific offences without regard to the effects such judgments would have on the convicted persons.

But there is every reason to hope that "uniformity of the principles of sentencing" were seriously studied and that they will produce a measure of consistency in the terms handed down from the bench. In the public mind there is too prevalent an opinion that sentencing in some courts is too often the result of prejudice and caprice. Removal of that belief would do much to increase respect for the law.

Reassessing U.S. Asia Policy After Nehru

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE death of Jawaharlal Nehru has come at a time of great uncertainty and change in Asian balance of power.

It compounds the uncertainty. For what happens in India, or more exactly in the Indian subcontinent which includes Pakistan, will affect the future of Asia as a whole. At worst, India will, as so often in the past, become fragmented. Nehru was not only a national hero, but also, as the direct heir of Mahatma Gandhi, an anointed man. Lacking such a ruler there could be a great disorder among the many tribes, clans, castes and sects which comprise Indian society.

At best, which we may dare to think is possible, India under Nehru's successor will not only consolidate itself but will also go on with the task, which Nehru had just begun before his death, of making peace with Pakistan, turning what is a hostile co-existence into some kind of collaboration.

Certain Immunities

The inherent strength of India-Pakistan cannot be measured in terms of army divisions, tanks and air squadrons. The crucial fact about the great subcontinent is that it has shown itself highly immune to the kind of pressure and propaganda and infiltration which has been causing so much of Southeast Asia to crumble.

If India is to be conquered by China, it will have to be by direct and overt military aggression, by the kind of aggression which is unmistakable and is indubitably a casus belli under international law and the charter of the United Nations. This point is critically important in any evaluation of our own foreign policy in Asia. For it would justify, it seems to me, a firm commitment to go to the defence of India-Pakistan if the Chinese attacked them.

American Power

The other strong position in South Asia is held by the United States, and it consists of our sea and air forces. The presence of these forces in the South Pacific and, increasingly, in the Indian Ocean is our real contribution to the eventual stabilization of Southern Asia and of the islands of the South Pacific. In the foreseeable future China is quite incapable of challenging this great force, and the central business of a serious assessment and planning of United States policy is to come to an understanding of the nature of our own power.

The essential problem arises from the fact that our forces are infinitely more destructive than any other force in the region, including the Chinese forces. The American power is so overwhelmingly great that it cannot be used at will. It cannot be used, for example, as fellow travellers of Sen. Barry Goldwater have been proposing, to intimidate North Viet Nam and China by bombing them "coolly yet massively," while we "stop our ears to a fearful worldwide clamor until the job is done."

This is as foolish as it is immoral. It is foolish because for the United States to intervene with savage cruelty in an Asian country would be to show a wanton disrespect for the opinion of mankind. Such disrespect does not go unpunished because we stop our ears. It would be our day of infamy if we used our superior power to "destroy the entire military, industrial and economic infrastructure" of a country with which we are not at war. This would be the way to destroy our influence in Asia, not to preserve and consolidate the American presence in the Pacific and in Asia.

The fundamental principle to which we must subject ourselves is that American sea and air power can be used only if and when the United States is acting, as it did in the Korean War, under an international sanction. What we do not have and what we need now in Southeast Asia is a treaty guaranteeing the independence of the countries of Southeast Asia, a treaty which is signed and ratified by all the great powers that are concerned—namely, China, the Soviet Union, India and Pakistan, the United States, Britain and France.

Unreal Foreboding

The foreboding that we are on the verge of being expelled from Asia and the Western Pacific is quite unreal. American sea and air power command the whole Pacific Ocean, and there is no serious rival sea and air power on these waters, as there was when Japan had a great navy. Our problem in the Pacific is not how to make our power credible, how to make ourselves feared, perhaps by coolly yet massively destroying a country. Our problem is to legitimize our presence in Asia and in the Pacific as the possessor of this monopoly of enormous force.

Strong Misgivings in the Hooper Case

THE case of Mr. Eric Hooper which on Friday provoked one of the most furious parliamentary rows of the session is bound to revive all the old suspicions of bureaucratic disregard for human rights in the department of citizenship and immigration. Mr. Hooper, an American citizen, was arrested last February and held for something over 90 days before a charge was brought against him. This was withdrawn four days later and he was deported to the United States. Until almost the end of his incarceration Mr. Hooper was without benefit of counsel although there is a suggestion in ministerial statements that the fault was his own.

Two ministers, Mr. Tremblay and Mr. Favreau, have now made three attempts to explain a matter which was first brought to their attention on May 25 by Mr. Orlikow. They have not been conspicuously successful and a good deal of confusion remains. Mr. Tremblay, an inexperienced minister who took over the department only on February 3, made things worse on Friday because his rather casual answers sounded remarkably like those of a government official who has no knowledge of rules and regulations. It is difficult to say how much language difficulties contributed to this unfortunate impression.

Not Comprehensive

Mr. Favreau's "full report" of Thursday was by no means comprehensive enough to satisfy critical members of Parliament. In its economy of facts it was also unfair to Mr. Hooper. Thus it brought out the facts against him: a Toronto conviction of January 1961 for illegal possession of a drug and three previous deportations from Canada. But it failed to note that Mr. Hooper, who is estranged from his wife, has a child in this country which at least explains his persistent attempts to reach Canada with or without official permission. It was Mr. Tremblay who afterwards added this information.

The minister made the point that Mr. Hooper was originally held in custody not only on the immigration count but also because of a charge brought by Toronto police. This was, however, withdrawn on March 15 and it is therefore indisputable that the department was solely responsible for the confinement in the Don Jail for 72 days. Nor can the previous three weeks be left entirely out of the reckoning for this time was presumably available to officials in preparing their case.

From March 15 onwards Mr. Hooper was held "under the authority of the Immigration Act" and on March 23 the inquiry got under way. Because of his refusal to answer questions, the inquiry officer adjourned the hearing to April 7 when other evidence was produced to establish his unlawful entry. Mr. Hooper was ordered deported and did not appeal.

But he was not then deported. Instead he was kept in Don Jail for another 45 days while the department considered whether or not it should lay the charge which was ultimately to be dropped. Mr. Favreau on Thursday frankly conceded that there had been "certain delays" which had been "occasioned in the administrative machinery in processing this matter."

On Thursday evening, when Mr. Orlikow raised the question during the grievance period, Mr. Tremblay offered more details, more explanations and more dates. He assured the House that "there has not been any undue delay." His statement added to the general confusion because it was in some respects different from Mr. Favreau's.

According to Mr. Tremblay, "the department needs three weeks to study thoroughly the case of a person who has someone in Canada, a wife and child were involved in this case." This then was the problem which engaged officials from April 7 to an unstated date. Meanwhile the investigation continued and proceedings were instituted on May 5. Referring back to Mr. Favreau's statement, we find that "it was decided to prefer the charge, but in the making and implementing of this decision there was a lengthy delay and the charge was not laid until May 22."

Why was Mr. Hooper without counsel while all these administrative processes were moving majestically to the climax of May 22 and the anti-climax of May 25? Speaking of the situation on March 23, Mr. Favreau told the House on Thursday that "he had been given ample opportunity to retain counsel if he wished to do so." This is one of the matters which has troubled Parliament because of Mr. Hooper's claim that he refused to answer questions until he could get a lawyer and his charge, quoted in the House by Mr. Orlikow, that one official told the prisoner: "You'll rot here until you're ready to talk."

From Our Files

Statistics prove that there are larger numbers of women compelled to till the soil in Europe than in America.

June 4, 1924 — Coquitlam: The entire logging camp belonging to the Hage Logging Co., including a 7-mile stretch of railroad, was destroyed by forest fires last night.

Letters

Selfish?

What has happened to the minds of the human element?

Do we only think of selfish gains, while we cause chaos and hardships on other workers who would be gainfully employed? I am referring to the MacMillan, Bloedel striking office workers.

Have they stopped to think that the tidal wave could have completely wiped out the means of their livelihood?

Have they stopped to think that by the grace of God they are lucky to have been spared death, but it could have left them maimed and helpless.

"A WORKER."

Consider the Young

Personally I am not opposed to any flag that has suited or will suit the majority.

However, with all due respect to the older generation—many, including myself—that fought under the present flag, I still feel that perhaps the wishes of the younger generation should be considered, even if the Old Flag with its noble traditions of school "mawaters," the "Pawsons" gaiters, and the old school tie have to be discarded to some extent.

In an analysis of the mind of modern Canadian youth, I find they are mostly patriotic but also possess that saving grace, "a sense of humor" and I feel their tastes should be considered to some extent rather than a wholehearted concession to the wishes of senior citizens from "over 'ome," plum pudding included.

RENE HARRIS.

'Baby-Talk' Art

It is hard to understand why local art critics are reluctant to deal honestly with the deficiencies of so much contemporary painting and sculpture; why, instead of saying directly that a piece of work is pretentious nonsense, lacking in technique and content, they lean over backward to damn ever so politely with the faintest of praise expressed in elaborate double-talk.

It is all the harder to understand especially when I notice that drama and music critics hold no such tender feelings.

Mr. Skeilton's enthusiastic review of the recent exhibition by several local painters, and of the current Ottawa Biennial, prompted me to visit them, and I was once again struck by the fact that even the most inept and unskilled sort of painting, lacking in content and sloppy in execution, will be accepted for showing and get favorable notice.

In the first show, for instance, the work of Michael Morris stands out like baby-talk in a mature adult conversation. These efforts are pretentious, immature, show not the slightest evidence of even the rudiments of drawing, design or color harmony.

To hang with the works of experienced and knowledgeable artists is an affront to them and a disservice to such an amateurish beginner. For the critic to say, "... these are real and challenging moments of a steadily developing vision. We are fortunate in being allowed to see them," is unfair and misleading for the prospective spectator.

I feel that it is one of the critic's duties to point out the more obvious and glaring deficiencies in any work on exhibition, and that the cliché, "Local boy makes good," is really not a valid standard on which to base art criticism.

VITO CIANCI

'Not Worthwhile'

This does not, however, throw much light on the circumstances. Mr. Hooper is a Negro, probably of limited means. Was he aware that he could obtain legal aid? Was he assisted in finding it or left to his own resources? Mr. Brewin, a lawyer of integrity and wide experience in immigration cases, claims that it is "the practice of special inquiry officers to notify people of their entitlement to the right of counsel and then tell them it is not worth their while having a counsel because in effect a decision has been made before the hearing."

Mr. Hooper's charges may be quite baseless. The fact is, however, that they cannot be tested because after these incredible delays the charge was made only to be hastily "dropped" in favor of deportation. Suspensions linger and they will not quickly be dispelled if Mr. Tremblay persists in the attitude that whatever is departmental is right. Mr. Favreau did, however, make a more favorable impression with his assurance that steps will be taken to prevent the repetition of such an occurrence in the future; an assurance to which the ministry will certainly be held.

Born in Laval, France, this irreverent author, poet and playwright preceded the surrealists with such daring works as "King Ubu" and "The Superman." As he lay dying, a friend bent over him to catch any last profound thoughts; Jarry opened his eyes, smiled cynically, asked: "Anybody got a toothpick?" and died.

... REPORTING

OTTAWA—As composers say in labeling a galley of type, MORE FLAG etalon shudlu.

For a week I've been sporadically mulling over what many observers consider an astonishing boohoo in the government's flag strategy, the double-barrelled resolution that tosses the Union Jack into the same pot with the new maple leaf flag.

In the week before this play Prime Minister Pearson was riding high. His flag had almost solid support from Liberals and splinter parties, and even French-Canadian Conservatives said they'd vote for it. Pearson was home free. Then he put this motion on the Commons' calendar for debate:

"That the government be authorized to take such steps as may be necessary to establish officially as the flag of Canada a flag embodying . . . three maple leaves conjoined on one stem in the colors red and white . . . the red leaves occupying a field of white between vertical sections of blue on the edges of the flag and also to provide that the Royal Union Flag, generally known as the Union Jack, may continue to be flown as a symbol of Canadian membership in the Commonwealth of Nations and of our allegiance to the Crown."

The two-flags resolution confronts French-Canadian MPs with the need to vote for the Union Jack in order to vote for the maple leaf flag. Real Casquette's Creditistes have said they won't do it, and Quebec Tories likely will back away.

The passage of the resolution and the fate of the government now depend on how the 47 Quebec Liberals vote. They are expected to vote solidly for the Pearson flag, swallowing the Union Jack as best they can.

If all Liberals, all the NDP and the three western Secreds vote for the resolution, they can muster a maximum of 148 votes, or well over the bare majority of 131 needed to carry the resolution.

But it all seemed so unnecessary: without the Union Jack rider this resolution could command a thumping majority of nearly 200 Commons votes, which surely would be preferable to a narrow majority in a matter such as this.

The complication of the issue with the Union Jack also seemed to be a sop to extreme traditionalists like Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland, who are out of touch and sympathy with those feelings of Canadian nationalism that in most of the other provinces seek expression in a distinctive flag. Pearson seemed to be abandoning the principle of "one country, one flag" that had promised to make the maple leaf flag a strong unifying force from sea to sea.

The wording of the resolution, however, authorizes the government to establish the maple leaf flag as Canada's flag. This implies executive action, regulations, and perhaps penalties for flying other flags in lieu of the maple leaf flag. Imagine the public outcry if someone were fined for flying the Union Jack!

To avoid this possibility, I'm told, the government added a purely permissive rider to the resolution, to authorize use of the Union Jack not as Canada's flag, but as a symbol of Canada's Commonwealth membership and allegiance to the Crown.

That makes some sense to me. But I think that as the new flag grows in the nation's affection, the Union Jack, while permissible to be flown, will lapse into desuetude.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Bursitis

Bursitis means an inflammation of a bursa, and a bursa is usually a little bag of fluid which serves as a sort of pulley under a muscle, or under a tendon running from a muscle to a bone. One of the commonest bursas in the body, and the one that probably gives most trouble, is the one under the "deltoid" muscle, which covers the shoulder joint.

Recently, Dr. Drennan Lowell of Boston said that often people can confuse a bursitis with disease of the sheath of a tendon or a disease of some part of the capsule around a joint. The cause of inflammation in bursas and tendon sheaths can be an injury, like a heavy blow, or an infection, or perhaps some change in the body chemistry. Often it seems to be part of the poorly understood processes which produce the several types of arthritis.

I have been subject all my life to fibrositis, which seems to be a mild relative of arthritis. Every so often, some muscle or joint or bursa in my body will become sensitive for a few days or a few weeks or even a few months, and then one day, without any treatment, the trouble will clear up, and for months I will be free from soreness. I have never taken a drop of medicine for my fibrositis. Often when I have waked in the morning with a hip joint or ankle joint so sore that I had to limp, I have walked two or three blocks, and with this I was free from pain for the rest of the day. At times, to get relief, I have gotten into a tub of hot water.

I have seen inflammation of a bursa or a tendon sheath flare up when a highly sensitive person ran into a period of great mental distress. Arthritic people commonly get into trouble when they are worried and unhappy. Dr. Russell Cecil, one of the great authorities in the world on arthritis, once told me that whenever one of his old arthritics comes back with a flare-up, his first question is, "What just went wrong in your life?"

I remember well when one of my best friends, who had always been perfectly healthy, got a distressing difference of opinion with his senior partner. Quickly, then, the joints in my friend's hands became so swollen and inflamed and painful that he spent a year in the southwest, trying to get well. Then he left his partner, and went to another city; and there, when he found congenial work and happiness, he was all right.

There is no question that there can be arthritis and bursitis and tendonitis due to hereditary chemical abnormalities in the body, such as those in gout, which is due to too much uric acid in the body. Arthritis is seen also with psoriasis—a recurrent inflammation of small areas of the skin.

There are all degrees of inflammation in bursas. Bursitis can be so painful that for a time the person will hate to use his shoulder joint. Eventually, if he does not use the joint it may get so stiff that adhesion will form, which later may have to be broken up with the person under anesthesia. That there are chemical changes going on is shown by the fact that a bursa under the shoulder muscle can become filled with calcium (lime) salts. When it is thus calcified and hard, it will show up on an x-ray film as a white area. When, instead of being soft and smooth-walled, it becomes hard and chalky and roughened, there is likely to be pain with every movement of the arm.

PROS CERTAIN:

Barry's Wagon Now Rolling To Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP)—Many Republican pros believe Barry Goldwater's California victory started his bandwagon rolling and that there's nothing in sight that can keep him from the presidential nomination.

(Final count in the vital primary was: Goldwater, 1,107,307; Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York, 1,043,272.)

"The view is not, of course, universal in the party and some opponents of the Arizona senator still hope to stop the bandwagon before the Republican convention starts July 13.

But there is little argument about the arithmetic involved. Goldwater needs 635 delegates to win the nomination. He has, by Associated Press tabulation, a minimum of 438 after winning California's big bloc of 86 delegates.

In addition to the simple arithmetic, there is the bandwagon mood that some Republican leaders think was stirred up by Goldwater's victory in the golden state.

For example, Washington's Republican state chairman, W. Y. Walter, said Wednesday that all of the state's 24 delegates—the last of them to be picked June 12—will back Goldwater because of California.

"I think Goldwater can't be stopped," said Walter, "so we will go along with the winner."

Goldwater's aides, who figure that 454 delegates are publicly committed to the senator, hadn't had any Washington delegates counted in that tabulation.

"WON'T BE EASY" Goldwater's campaign director, Denison Kitchel, predicts that Goldwater will win on the first or second ballot but he concedes the prize won't be won easily.

"I'm sure there will be a stop — Goldwater movement of some sort right up to the very end."

But former senator William F. Knowland, who managed Goldwater's California campaign, said "it is going to be very difficult for the opposition to put together any coalition because they don't have the delegate votes."

Is the end only a hoot and a holler away?

Rockefeller, who saw Goldwater upset him in California, acknowledged that it looks now as if the senator will win the nomination on the first or second ballot. But he is not throwing in his hand.

"I'm staying right in this to the end," Rockefeller said. "There's a long time between now and the convention in San Francisco and it's hard to tell what is going to happen."

CALIF. WIN COST BARRY NEAR MILLION

WASHINGTON (AP)—Denison Kitchel, manager of Senator Barry Goldwater's successful primary election campaign in California, said Wednesday the Arizona conservative spent between $750,000 and $1,000,000 to win the state's Republican presidential nomination. But Kitchel said Gov. Nelson E. Rockefeller of New York, whom Goldwater defeated, outspent the senator $4 to $1 in the California race.

THE FATHERS OF CONFEDERATION

Thomas D'Arcy McGee

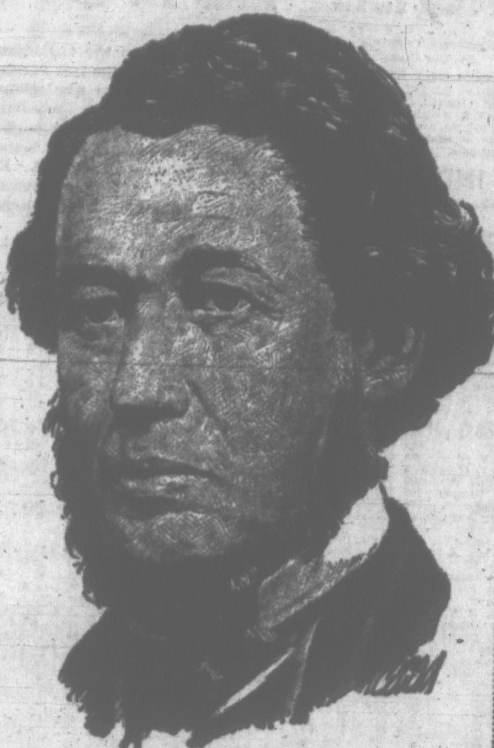

The short, hectic life of Thomas D'Arcy McGee was filled with poetry and violence.

McGee was born in Carlingford, Ireland, April 13, 1825, the son of a coastguardsman. At the age of 17 he joined the great wave of Irishmen leaving their famine-stricken land and headed for the Americas. He got work as a newspaperman but within three years returned to Dublin to join a newspaper there. The failure of the revolt of the Young Ireland Party in 1848 caused his abrupt flight, disguised as a priest, even though he had not actively taken up arms. In the United States the second time, he worked first in New York and later in Boston. In 1852 he moved to Buffalo, but five years later took the decisive step of moving to Montreal. There, in editing the New Era, he urged the formation of an independent Canadian nation. He entered the Canadian Parliament in 1858, being president of the council in 1862-63 and minister of agriculture from 1864 until Confederation. When Sir John A. Macdonald was forming his first federal cabinet, McGee made a considerable sacrifice and stood aside, even though he was an obvious selection.

McGee, proclaimed the most gifted orator ever to sit in Canada's Parliament and a poet of some pretensions as well, met a violent end mainly because he publicly deplored the violent tactics of his fellow Irishmen, the Fenians. As he returned home from a late session of the Commons, April 7, 1868, he was shot and killed by a Fenian sympathizer, P. J. Whelan.

'Soviet Union Like One-Company Town'

TORONTO (CP)—The Soviet Union is like a huge one-company town and is getting more like it as time passes, according to 13 Canadian business leaders recently returned from a 14-day tour of Russia.

"Everyone is not only an employee but a customer," said James A. Richardson, vice-president of James Richardson and Sons Limited.

"As the government owns all the land as well as all the factories and all the stores, it derives its revenue from profit."

Albert C. Ashforth, retired president of the Toronto-Dominion Bank, and vice-president of Corporate Investors Limited, said profit is spoken of as necessary and desirable.

The State Bank of the Soviet Union operates like a chartered Canadian bank, taking 75 per cent of the profits of industry (the remaining 25 per cent is held by the industry) and extending it for development of the country.

But instead of this development being directed by several

Recession to Mark Canada's Centenary

MINNA, Ont. (CP)—A professor of economics at the University of Ottawa predicted Wednesday Canada will mark its centenary in 1967 at the bottom of the next economic recession.

Dr. O. J. Firestone, vice-dean of the university's faculty of social sciences, told a Manitoba labor-management seminar sponsored by the University of Manitoba to expect a slowdown in the economy beginning in 1965 and a recession to follow.

However, he said the period of recession should be followed by a period of economic expansion "probably greater than anything we have seen since the end of the Second World War."

Dr. Firestone, a former top economist with the federal trade department, said the current economic expansion, now in its fourth year, will continue another year and predicted an increase of six to seven per cent in the gross national product.

Rose Annual Ready for Study

Word has just arrived that the 1964 Rose Annual of the American Rose Society is ready for distribution.

This year's edition runs to 256 pages with 10 color pages of new roses, 29.5 pages of black and white photographs, plus line drawings and diagrams.

The importance of soil, and the latest research in this field, has the emphasis for 1964.

Other equally interesting articles include virus diseases of roses, foliar leaching, propagation and hybridizing.

The gardener who takes his rose growing seriously turns first to the section on the "New Roses of the World," there he finds the latest introductions described, and life is not worth living until his choices are safely planted in his rose beds.

The popular "Proof of the Pudding" department is present, as it has been for years. This is the section which carries the reports of rosarians from all over the United States and Canada on the behavior of varieties under their conditions.

These reports are candid, to say the least, and coupled with the article on what to look for when buying a rose, provides a guide for the perplexed would-be rose grower.

Cost of the annual is four dollars and 50 cents. It is included in the yearly membership of $5.50 together with 12 issues of the American Rose Magazine.

The address is: American Rose Society, 4048 Roselea Place, Columbus, Ohio 43214 (don't forget that zip code!)

B.C. Mining Firm Buys Manitoba Oil Producer

VIRIDEN, Man. (CP)—Brilliance Pioneer Mines Ltd. of Vancouver, has purchased Paradise Petroleum Ltd., Manitoba's second largest oil producer, George H. Davenport, Brilliance president, announced here Wednesday.

Paradise holds interests in about 30 wells in the Viriden, Roselea and Routledge oil fields in southwestern Manitoba.

Mr. Davenport said the purchase "forms part of an overall program of diversification undertaken by our Vancouver-based mining firm." The company recently acquired an interest in the West Proven Villing gas field in Alberta and oil property in the Dodsland field in Saskatchewan.

Mr. Davenport said Paradise will continue to operate under the direction of president John W. Clarke of Viriden.

Island Mine Prospecting in Kootenays

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three companies headed by H. H. Huettis are planning a base metal exploration program at the Franklin mining camp 40 miles north of Grand Forks in the West Kootenay area, it was disclosed Wednesday.

The companies are Butte Lake Mining, Huettis Mining and Northwest Ventures.

To date 20 claims involving an area six miles long and four miles wide have been staked. Mr. Huettis said that negotiations also are being carried on for privately-held ground.

Access roads now are being cut and work is planned immediately on the next steps of mapping, trenching and, as warranted, diamond drilling in the area near the north fork of the Granby River some 20 miles west of Lower Arrow Lake.

Copper, lead, zinc, gold, silver and possibly platinum are being sought.

AT MONTREAL International

Nickle fell 1/4, Home Oil 1/4, Falconbridge and Trans-Canada Pipe Line 1/4 each, and Domtar and Crust International 1/4 each.

In speculative mines on the Canadian exchange, Mount Pleasant and Surliga lost one cent each and Equity 1/2 cent. Chipman Lake gained 1/2 cent.

AT LONDON, gilt-edged were dull and most dollar stocks eased.

Industrials were mixed and quiet. Several leaders, including ICI, Courtauld, EMI, Bowater and Leyland Motor were ahead. Weaker were GEC, Marks and Spencer and Bovril.

Oils improved, golds were dull, time improved.

AT VANCOUVER, trading was moderate. Bethlehem Copper was down at $6.35 and Endako at $9.10. Highland Bell climbed to $5.35 while Western Mines dropped to $5.25. Silver Standard was down at .77 and Massey-Ferguson at $27. Pacific Petroleum dropped to $14 and Futurity to .45.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Bigger Income, Heavier Buying

By GORDON BELL,
Times Business Editor

Canadian personal income last year rose by 6.3 per cent from the previous year and a good deal of the increase, apparently, was used as the basis for taking on considerably heavier credit commitments.

Two sets of statistics released by the federal government underline the fact that consumer credit balances of sales finance companies, department and other stores and bank personal loan departments are rising at a faster clip than personal income.

The figures show that personal income at the end of 1963 had risen to $32,771,000 compared with $30,817,000,000 at the end of 1962 but the increase was less, on a percentage basis than that from 1961 to 1962 when income jumped 8.2 per cent.

Credit, on the other hand, is rising at a rapid clip. Figures on balances outstanding at the end of March show percentage changes from 12 months earlier varying from nearly 10 per cent higher for sales finance companies on consumer goods contracts down to a small decline for small loan cash credit but with an overall increase of nearly 14 per cent.

On a per capita basis Canadians were on the hook for about $250 each for consumer credit at the end of March, which is a new record high.

For the 23rd consecutive year Dominion Stores Ltd. recorded a new peak in sales and earnings, it was revealed in the annual report covering the fiscal year to last March 21.

Net profit was up by 14.6 per cent at $9,326,127, equal to $1.15 a share compared with $1.01 a share in the previous year. The net was equal to 2.03 cents per dollar of sales compared with the previous year's margin of 1.9 cents per dollar.

Total sales were up 7.57 per cent at $459,345,762. The company has increased the dividend rate from 50 to 64 cents a share effective June 15, an increase of 28 per cent and double the rate effective at Sept. 15, 1961.

The report shows that Dominion, which operates 362 supermarkets from Nova Scotia to Alberta, and will open 30 more this year, is 90 per cent owned by Canadian shareholders.

The oil and gas boom in Alberta shows no sign of diminishing and a sale of rights by the government this week brought in $4,259,759 in bonuses.

The Alberta treasury so far this year has received more than $33 million from sales compared with less than $20 million at the same time last year.

Highest bidder in the latest sale was Imperial, Western Delta and Pacific who together bid $1,655,444 for an 11,360-acre parcel 150 miles west of Edmonton.

Canadian government, provincial, municipal and corporate bond financing total for the first five months of this year reached $1,498,271,105, down about $523 million less than the total one year ago.

Figures compiled by Wood, Gundy and Company show declines in federal, provincial, western municipal financing with increases in Ontario and Quebec and Maritime municipalities.

U.S. payable issues for the first five months totalled only $187,502,000 compared with $481,676,695 in the same period last year.

NEW FIGHT BREWING OVER SALMON PRICES

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fishing companies Tuesday offered British Columbia salmon fishermen slightly higher prices for this year's catch than were paid for the 1963 run.

The Fisheries Association of B.C. offered 35 cents a pound for sockeye, 25 cents for coho, 10 1/2 cents for pinks and 12-15 cents for chums. The offer was made as annual negotiations with the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (Ind.) opened here.

The fishermen are seeking the same prices that were rejected last year and resulted in a three-week strike. They are 36 cents for sockeye, 30 cents for coho, 15 cents for pinks and 16 cents for chums.

Negotiators resumed the talks today.

'All Bank Loan Costs Needn't Be Detailed'

OTTAWA (CP)—K. R. MacGregor, federal superintendent of insurance, said Tuesday chartered banks are not obliged to write into some loan agreements the full annual charge the borrower must pay.

He told the special Commons-Senate committee studying consumer credit that he was referring to unsecured bank loans up to $1,500. The banks, he said, are permitted to charge an annual interest rate of six per cent on such loans. In addition they may levy a charge for maintaining the loan account.

Mr. MacGregor said the interest rate of six per cent must be specified but that this does not apply to the charge. The borrower agreed to pay the charge by signing an agreement with the bank.

"Borrowers are left far from clear as to the effective annual charge," he said. Mr. MacGregor, appearing before the committee to explain federal legislation relating to consumer credit, said the effect of the bank charge means the banks charge an annual interest rate on small loans ranging from 9.8 per cent to 11.6.

Mr. MacGregor, appearing before the committee to explain federal legislation relating to consumer credit, said the effect of the bank charge means the banks charge an annual interest rate on small loans ranging from 9.8 per cent to 11.6.

The silver claims involved are in the Stikine River area about 220 miles north of Prince Rupert.

American Smelting will manage the operation.

'Retain Contacts With People'

REGINA (CP) — Canadian municipal leaders were asked Wednesday night to "resist pressures to become empire-builders."

D. G. Stewart, Saskatchewan health minister and former mayor of Prince Albert, told the annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities that municipal governments are those with which people have the closest contact.

TWO SENATORS GRUMBLE AT B.C.'s BANK

OTTAWA (CP) — Two more senators, one Liberal and one Conservative, told the upper chamber Wednesday they will give approval on second reading to the bill establishing the Bank of British Columbia, only for the purpose of getting a chance to question its sponsors before a Senate committee.

Senator Sydney J. Smith (L.-British Columbia) and Senator Gunar Thorvaldson (PC-Manitoba) were adding their names to a growing list of senators who have indicated they don't care for the bill, but want to know more about it.

Should local governments allow themselves to become complex bureaucracies, this close contact would be lost, Mr. Stewart said.

"Municipalities are the bedrock of Canadian democracy. For most people their first and only experience with government is on the local level."

"Municipalities act as a check and balance on the growing powers of the provincial and federal governments. There is a school of thought that says government to be good government must be big government. I don't agree with that school."

Mr. Stewart said a major problem of municipalities was the widening gap between the cost of the services they provide and the amount of tax money they can collect. This problem could be met partly by municipalities banding together in metropolitan councils and similar regional groupings to jointly finance services they all need such as hospitals. Municipalities also should keep a rein on increases in services.

NEW MODERATOR of Presbyterian Church in Canada is Rev. Hugh R. MacMillan, 72, elected at 90th general assembly of church in Toronto Wednesday. Mr. MacMillan spent 38 years as a missionary in Formosa, and has been living in Toronto since his retirement in 1962.

QUADRUPLETS FAIL TO LIVE

NEW YORK (AP)—The Peloro quadruplets, born prematurely Tuesday, are dead. The boy died shortly before noon Wednesday; the three girls late Wednesday night within 40 minutes.

Authorities at Long Island Jewish Hospital, Queens, said the boy and one of the girls had respiratory troubles, and the other two "died quite suddenly." No cause was given.

Oak Bay Teacher On Loan

Oak Bay teacher James F. Cairnie has been appointed a curriculum consultant by the provincial education department.

Mr. Cairnie will be on loan to the department for the school year starting in September.

He is a social studies specialist at Oak Bay Senior Secondary School.

Mr. Cairnie is also president of the B.C. Teachers' Federation until June 30, when his term expires.

His new job will be to revise courses, change textbooks and conduct research.

Each year the department appoints two teachers to help supervise the curriculum for B.C. schools. They work directly with 22 committees which are currently studying curriculum revisions and making recommendations for changes in all major subjects.

Mr. Cairnie's partner this year will be R. I. McLoughlin, supervisor of elementary instruction in the Peace River district.

'Peg Social Aid To Living Costs'

OTTAWA (CP)—Social assistance and supplementary allowances paid to indigent aged Canadians should be pegged to the cost of living, the Senate aging committee was told today.

The recommendation was one of a series made to the committee in a brief presented by the Community Chest and Councils of the Greater Vancouver area.

The brief said the recent increase to $75 a month from $65 in the federal old age security allowance paid to persons from age 75 brought allowances somewhat closer to the cost of living. However, the figure should be under constant review to make it possible for the needy aged to maintain a minimum standard of living.

The Community Chest and Councils said the federal government should provide national leadership to provide the stimulation needed for the development of services for older people. It should ensure that research and experimental services are initiated, test their need and validity and arrange for a sharing of information among all levels of government on problems of the aged and their solution.

The brief urged better medical and other services for the aged and that they be provided with fully-staffed counselling services. Financial support was proposed for persons caring for older persons in their homes.

In the field of mental health, the brief suggested that a form of legal guardianship and protective services be established to solve problems posed by mildly incompetent older people. It also urged that proper custodial care be developed immediately for aged persons suffering long-term chronic illnesses.

50,000 Sign Petition To Beatify Pope John

VATICAN CITY (AP)—In the north Italian birthland of Pope John XXIII, a move was started Wednesday to make him a saint.

A petition signed by 50,000 people in Bergamo province was presented to a bishop of the Roman Catholic Church asking for proceedings to beatify Pope John, who died a year ago Wednesday. Beatification is a step toward canonization as a saint.

Bishop Clemente Gaddi of Bergamo said the petition would be sent promptly to the Congregation of Rites at the Vatican.

The congregation handles causes for beatification and canonization. Beatification is the process of establishing that one may be publicly venerated by Roman Catholics in a particular area. It bestows the title of "blessed."

It will be up to Pope Paul and the Congregation of Rites to determine whether a cause for beatification should be opened. Vatican sources said a petition with so many names—showing popular devotion to John XXIII—would be a strong factor.

Gilbey's describe how to garnish a dry martini

Some gins have rather strong flavouring. Others are utterly tasteless. Gilbey's London Dry has a perfect balance for the classic dry martini. A dry flavour that has been the international favourite since 1873. Quite a long time.

Since its invention the dry martini has always been graced with an olive. Very proper with the pit left in. Stuffed olives are acceptable, too.

Unions to Aid Strike-Idled

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Top federation officials met Wednesday and decided to ask member unions to assist their 100,000 members one dollar a week in donations to pay for workers idled by the dispute at the MacMillan Bloedel and Powell River Limited plant at Port Alberni.

More than 3,000 workers at the Port Alberni plant are idle because of the strike of 50 office workers seeking higher wages and a union shop. The 3,000 workers refused to cross office workers picket lines.

Union Man Flies East To College

While Canada's young students are enjoying summer holidays, the nation's union leaders are busy with studies.

The second of two seven-week sessions of the second annual Labor College of Canada begins Monday in Montreal.

Flying out of Victoria Saturday is the third of three Vancouver Island students to attend this year.

John Nicol (Retail Food and Drug Clerks Union, Local 1515, secretary) will join Harry G. Anderson, a CIBT member, and Frank Kutney, Jordan River, of the IWA.

Mr. Anderson is a driver with Vancouver Island Coach Lines, and Mr. Kutney is a 33-year-old logger.

All are attending on $1,100 scholarships provided by unions. They will live in at the college, which uses the facilities of the University of Montreal and McGill University.

Temporary Job For Cedar Hill

Oak Bay works committee Tuesday night recommended spending $2,000 to $3,000 for temporary improvement of Cedar Hill Cross Road between the Saanich border and the CJVI property near Crestview.

Engineer Geoffrey White said the road is in such disrepair it is hazardous.

A long-range plan for Cedar Hill Cross Road is a double highway with boulevard in between. Work on this could start anytime within the next three years, but not this year.

The committee also recommended that the Uplands Golf Club pay the cost of moving its fence further back off Cadboro Bay Road, as it is located on municipal property.

The fence is to be moved to make room for widening of the remainder of Cadboro Bay Road next winter.

600 DELEGATES

Odd Fellows Coming For 100th Birthday

More than 600 delegates to IOOF grand lodge convention will help Victoria Lodge No. 1 celebrate its centenary next week.

The annual meeting will draw Odd Fellows from across B.C., visitors from Alberta and the state of Washington, plus international IOOF sovereign grand master C. Everett Murphy, of Kingfisher, Okla.

Meetings for men's and women's sections of the fraternal organization will be held Monday through Thursday at Lodge No. 1 rooms, 1232 Douglas, and at Empress Hotel.

The original lodge here was an offshoot of California lodges, which granted the first charter, March 10, 1864.

The present building was erected by the lodge in 1879 and later was expanded to include the rest of the block north to Johnson Street.

Among the early members of the lodge was the city's first mayor, Thomas Harris, and among later men of note is ex-cabinet minister Herbert Anscombe.

Objectives of the lodge, although changing with the times and the relationship of individuals to the welfare state, are educational scholarships, welfare, relief in distress and mutual benevolence for members.

Lodges also send underprivileged children to summer camp at White Rock, provide a home for aged persons at Newton, sponsor athletics and provide school children with scholarships to visit the United Nations in New York.

Daily business sessions are closed, but the convention includes social events to which guests are invited. A banquet will be held at 7 p.m. Monday in Crystal ballroom, a social evening will be arranged Wednesday, also in the Empress, and a final banquet and ball Thursday at 7 in the Empress will close the convention.

A special feature of the social evening will be a skit based on contents of Lodge No. 1's 100-year-old minute book.

The centennial nature of the meetings will be marked by a ribboned medallion to be given to each delegate.

Organized sightseeing, museum and marine life tours will be available for those who want to take part.

New Chrysler Road Safety Program Set

WINDSOR—A new and improved program to promote traffic safety across Canada by providing driver education vehicles at no cost to approved schools has been announced by Ron W. Todgham, president, Chrysler Canada Ltd.

The nation-wide undertaking, which closely parallels a similar Chrysler program announced today in the United States, will make Chrysler-built cars available at no cost in whatever numbers are required to qualified schools having approved driver education courses. The vehicles will be provided through the 700 Chrysler dealers in Canada, Mr. Todgham said.

The program is scheduled to take effect shortly after the beginning of the school year this autumn.

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

Mr. Richard Ellis, the "Beau Gesie" of the English rugby set on these slopes, made an interesting pitch for womanhood the other night. He is all for it.

This was at the annual banquet of the James Bay Athletic Association, in whose flamboyant underwear a covey of junior and elderly gentlemen have frolicked on local, rugged patches since 1910.

There were ladies present, wives and sweethearts, renewing acquaintances with husbands and boy friends after a long season.

Having Ellis as a guest-speaker shows the extent to which rugby is rife with fraternization. In the open season Sir Richard, as a member of Oak Bay Wanderers, often gets his spine sat on by exuberant James Bay athletes.

He offered to bare his scars to prove his point but nobody took him up on it. The substance of his delivery was that if the James Bay Athletic, etc., is going forward, onward and upward, it requires the lusty backing of women.

Women are lacking many things today, most of them against the wall. Certain stout-hearted females are against gin and sin, not to mention motherhood unless it's OK with Brock Chisholm and the bank manager.

But women-in-sports! Egad, sir. It's almost enough to make a brawny JBAA scrum-half hand in his card and engraved bottle-opener.

Some Home By 7, Some By Lantern...

Mr. Ellis quickly restored the equanimity of his colleagues.

"We need—you need," he said, "to make women part of your program. I understand you have been looking over a site for a clubhouse and a playing field, that you plan to expand. Why not include a women's auxiliary?"

"I visited England last year and noticed that the most successful clubs had active women's support."

This included, he added, attendance at games and at post-game festivities where both sides take on a little convalescing ale to ease their wounds.

"Who knows?" Mr. Ellis asked, ogling the dolls. "If you are with your husbands after a Saturday game, you may both arrive home by 7 p.m."

Experienced wives smiled wisely. But one of their cast seemed perplexed. Turning to her husband, she asked:

"Do some of them actually get home by 7?"

Steeped-In-Age McKechnie Fat Flask

Some do and others—well, you know how it is when you belong to a club hoary with tradition.

Some history of JBAA might be in order for new rugby brides and ping-pong zealots.

The club was formed in 1892. Baseball was the first order of business. Rowing came next, followed by rugby in 1910.

Since then JBAA representatives have contributed wholesomely to the success of Victoria's Crimson Tide, a composite side which annually engages in a fling with the elite of Vancouver for the McKechnie Cup.

This is a massive, ornate hunk of silverware, large enough to hold about two cases or so of the stuff which fosters post-game camaraderie.

Girls Go Great In Gorgeous Gingham

After a prolonged mainland stay, the McKechnie this year returned to Victoria on the brawny backs of the Tide.

Four JBAA stalwarts—Pat Aldous, Sonny Vickery, Jack Maxwell and Dave McLean—flexed their muscles for the Tide, a fact which gave everyone at the JBAA banquet a strong feeling of justifiable pride.

Under the Ellis plan, the female division of JBAA would have more than a casual interest in the whereabouts of the McKechnie heirloom in the future. Those who toll together sing together and all that jazz.

I'm all for it as long as the sweeties stay in gingham and not in sweat-suits.

Girls in games? Not outdoors.

Wallaces' Future Hangs in Balance

VANCOUVER (CP)—Wallaces, last-place finishers in the 1963-64 Pacific Coast Soccer League season without a single victory in 21 games, have until July to figure out their future.

Bill Findler, league president, says he has informed club officials that the PCSL clubs will vote on Wallaces' status at the annual meeting in July.

"There are obvious mixed feelings in the club," said Findler.

"They are aware that unless they can come up with a much improved lineup, they will be voted out of the league. And it is quite possible the club will not make application to renew membership."

"There is also some criticism of the Seattle franchise, but I personally favor Seattle remaining in the league if their park facilities are improved," he said.

Joan Lawson Testing Champ in Semifinals

It was former champion against reigning fairway queen Margaret Todd as the semi-final round of the city women's golf championship started this morning over a damp Gorge Vale course.

In the other semi-final struggle, another former champ, Shirley Naysmith, matched strokes with Gorge clubmate Beryl Paterson.

Mrs. Paterson posted a mild upset in Wednesday's quarter-final tussles by trimming straight-hitting Lillian Thirwell 6 and 5.

Mrs. Lawson, although lacking her usual short-game accuracy, fashioned a 3-and-2 triumph over "Mike" Price to set up what promised to be an interesting match in today's semi.

Mrs. Todd, the hard-hitting Victoria Golf Club veteran, appeared to have control all the way as she stroked her way to a 6-and-5 win over Maude Crawford.

Mrs. Naysmith, who set the pace in the qualifying round with a fine 81, continued her steady shotmaking to chalk up a 4-and-3 victory over Elsie Saunders.

Consolation flight semi-finals today paired Mrs. M. Green against Mrs. K. Tribe and Mrs. E. Hay against Mrs. G. Pumphrey.

Uplands Boosts Golf Lead; Wright Extends Win Skein

Eric Wright has stretched his brilliant victory string and Uplands has grabbed a commanding lead in the Inter-Club Golf League.

Uplands, which won the league title for the first time last year, stepped into a big lead in the race for the Willie Park driver Wednesday night by trimming Gorge Vale belters 6½-2½ on the Gorge course.

The result gave Uplands 19 points out of a possible 27 and left the Gorge team at 14½.

Royal Colwood barely held on to the third spot after losing a 5-4 decision to the Victoria club at the Colwood layout.

Colwood with 10½ points is a half point in front of the Oak Bay squad.

Wright, the main reason Uplands grabbed the trophy last season, boosted his skein of triumphs to 14 (seven singles and seven fourball wins) as he helped Uplands to Wednesday's big triumph.

Playing with Gordie Fellow against the No. 3 Gorge team of Gordon Jones and Noel Pumphrey, Wright was three down to Jones after seven holes.

He got started back on the eighth, where Jones played his partner's ball, and finished with a 1-up win. Fellow also squeezed out a one-up victory and the Uplands pair won the fourball by the same count.

Bill Wakeham fired a fine three-under-par 71 to give the No. 1 Gorge team two points, but Eric Hilbertson posted a 72 to pace a 2½-½ win for the second Uplands duo.

Results, with visiting players listed first:

UPLANDS 6½ AT GORGE VALE 2½

Bob Hunt lost to Bill Wakeham, 2 down; Gordie Fellow lost to Eric Hilbertson, 3 and 2.

Eric Hilbertson defeated Art Donatson, 4 and 3; Frank Scroggs halved with Dave Fawcett; Hilbertson and Scroggs won four-ball match, 3 and 2.

Eric Wright defeated Gordon Jones, 1 up; Gordie Fellow defeated Noel Pumphrey, 1 up; Wright and Fellow won four-ball match, 3 and 2.

ROYAL COLWOOD 5 AT VICTORIA 4

Bill McColl halved with Laurie Kerr; Roy Campbell lost to Bill Court, 3 and 2; McColl and Campbell lost four-ball match, 3 and 2.

George Blackie halved with Vic Palmer; Paul Trapp defeated Joe Evans, 2 and 1; Blackie and Trapp won four-ball match, 3 and 2.

DOUG MAJOR defeated George Graham, 1 up; Cliff Harwood defeated Roger Ross, 2 up; Major and Harwood lost four-ball match, 3 and 2.

Vic High's Sorrow Mt. View's Delight

Members of the Victoria High school golf team may be wondering just what they have to do to win the inter-high school golf championship.

They made a clean sweep of their round-robin matches in the tournament this week, and still lost the championship to Mt. View High School, 5½ points to 51.

Even though Vic High downed Mt. View 6-3 in their match, Mt. View made up for the loss by trim by playing Sunday exhibition games with Vancouver teams, alternating between Victoria and the mainland.

"With the added expense, I don't think we'll be able to continue," says Wally Yeamans, manager-coach of the team for many years.

"Some of the girls are trying to obtain a sponsor. Unless we have a sponsor, we'll probably have to disband."

If anybody has ideas that would help keep Vicettes operating for the rest of the season, Wally would be pleased to hear them. His number is EV-4-6150.

SOFTBALL CHAMPS...

The provincial government may soon knock out a champion.

Decision of the B.C. Ferry Authority to abandon group rates for weekend and holiday travel between Vancouver Island and the mainland will force many Island teams to either fold up or greatly curtail inter-city competition.

One of the first to fall could be Victoria Vicettes, who won the Western Canada senior women's softball crown last year and are unbeaten this season.

Without opposition on the Island, Vicettes keep in

Nanaimo Tripped By Irish Pistons

Nanaimo 4, Shamrocks 7
By ERNIE FEDORUK

The man in the crowd was moaning about the lack of a probable 40-goal scorer with Victoria's Inter-City Lacrosse League team.

Judging the Shamrocks on the basis of recent results, it may be just as well they don't have one. Coach Donald Ashbee's green machine runs just as nicely on six "little pistons" as it would with one big one. Perhaps better.

No one individual carries the Rocks, and that is a good reason why Victoria today rates as the hottest team in the ICLL. Shamrocks' 7-4 decision over Nanaimo Wednesday night was their fifth victory in seven outings. They also sport a draw and one loss in that stretch.

The loss, a disputed 9-8 nod to Vancouver, was confirmed Wednesday night. League commissioner Tommy Gordon disallowed Victoria's protest of the Vancouver game and thus the Irish forfeited their $75 protest fee. The protest was based on a disallowed Victoria goal in the last four minutes of play, and Gordon said simply he was forced to go along with the referee's decision.

Munroe Pads Streak

That brings us back to the game with Nanaimo.

The "little pistons" all worked, but one happened to be more effective than the rest. That would be Dick Crompton, the 21-year-old mainland speedster who picked up "star-of-the-game" award with a brilliant performance.

All he did was to score four goals, including a pair while Shamrocks were playing short-handed, as well as turn in a fine penalty-killing display.

Barry Ashbee, Bill Gray and Bill Munroe—the latter extending his point-recording streak to an 11th game—scored Victoria's other goals. Gord Lawlor, Bill Russell, Gerry Shires and Jeff Wilkins popped in Nanaimo's goals at a one-a-period clip.

It wasn't one of Victoria's better performances, but the Rocks still clearly dominated the action. Indeed, they started out as if they intended to chase Nanaimo out of Memorial Arena.

Jay Pounds Pipes

It was 3-0 after only six minutes and 15 seconds of play. But Nanaimo, thanks to superb goalkeeping by Alf Shaker and some solid-sounding goal-posts, buckled down to make a fight of it.

Shaker turned away 36 Victoria shots, and the sum does not include at least eight others that bounced off the piping behind him.

Ron Jay had a particularly frustrating time with the posts. He bounced four off the pipes. By Jay's count, the burly Victoria forward has hit the pipes 10 times in the last three games.

Before Jay took over the pipe-ringing chores, Jim McNeill suffered through a similar stretch.

ON THE REBOUND: Shamrocks are at Nanaimo Saturday night then tackle New Westminster next week.

Bill Bradley was scheduled to play his first game but the mainland product "couldn't agree to terms" with the Shamrocks.

He didn't dress and chances are the Rocks won't dicker any more.

Defenceman Jack Showers is scheduled to join the Victoria team Saturday night.

Nanaimo, hit hard by the absence of Tom McVie and John Ferguson, are casting eyes at Bradley.

McVie is due to visit Nanaimo today but coach Buddy Dumont may have difficulty in getting Tom to sign again.

Ferguson, by the way, may be back in action soon—as a referee.

Reg Foster drew an assist on Crompton's last goal. It was Foster's second assist in two seasons.

Victoria's Tom Collett sat on the sidelines, nursing a finger he cut at work.

OCTOBER RUGBY MATCH

Fleet Fijians To Play Here

The Fiji International rugby team is coming to Victoria.

One of the fastest teams in international competition, the Fijians will play here the third week in October.

"If you think the Scottish Internationals showed something, wait until the Fijians flash their speed," said Tillman Briggs, publicity director for the Victoria Rugby Union.

"Unlike the Scots who played conservatively in the first half (against the B.C. Reps at MacDonald Park three weeks ago) and then displayed their speed and class in the second half, the Fijians go all out from the start," Briggs said.

"There's nothing conservative about their style."

Exhibition matches are also being arranged for the visitors in Vancouver.

Arrangements to bring the Fijian side here were completed at the recent annual general meeting of the VRU.

MACKENZIE RE-ELECTED

Delegates showed their faith in the VRU executive by re-electing most of them to serve for the 1964-65 campaign.

Dave Mackenzie went back as president as did John Kerr, vice-president, and Ray Colton, treasurer.

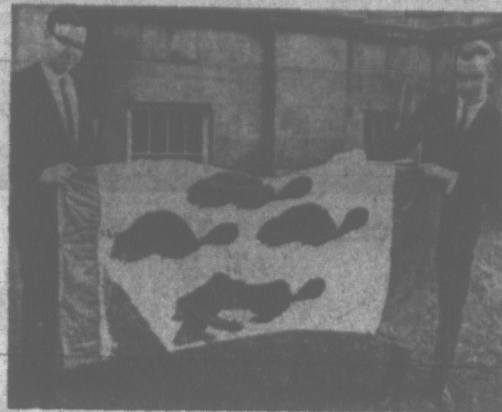

Stan Patterson was elected second vice-president.

Dick Ellis is the junior representative and Briggs was named publicity director.

'You Couldn't Keep NHL Out'—Smythe

VANCOUVER (UPD)—Stafford Smythe, president of the Stanley Cup champion Toronto Maple Leafs, said Wednesday night: "To try to keep the National Hockey League limited to two cities in Canada is ridiculous."

"If Vancouver had a suitable coliseum, I don't think you could keep the NHL out," he added.

A POLL by Teen-Age Canada has disclosed that the younger generation in Canada seems more inclined to accept a new flag than its elders. The flag shown above was briefly flown as a spoof on the controversy.

TEEN-AGE CANADA

Younger Canadians Want a New Flag

By JACK HUTTON

A majority of young people in Canada are in favor of a new flag for their country, according to a poll conducted by this column during recent weeks.

Several weeks ago, I asked for opinions and ideas about Canada's national flag.

I can't remember the last time that this column, which appears in 18 newspapers between Victoria, B.C., and Sydney, N.S., attracted such an immediate rush of mail.

Mailed Own Designs

A Vancouver reader mailed me three of his own designs for a new flag within two hours after reading the column. A Toronto reader not only designed a flag but personally presented it to Premier John Roberts.

Because it was impossible to reproduce most of the flags that came across my desk, I returned 33 designs. But I still have another 10 in the office and I wouldn't blame my boss for suspecting me of trying to start my own country.

Two hundred and 22 readers felt strongly enough about the issue to sit down and write, many of them in well thought out and lucid letters. I only wish I could print them all.

Wrote Tirades

The results? One hundred and 51 readers said they hoped Canada would fly a distinctive flag within their lifetime. Fifty-four said they thought the present flag—the Red Ensign—was just fine.

Another 17 letters didn't really deal with the flag. They mentioned it briefly, then launched into tirades on religion or race. I didn't count them.

Most of the designs shared a common fault: the artists tried to include too much in them. At least half of the flags worked in the official shields of all 10 provinces. Maple leaves showed up in about one-third.

No one included a beaver.

Here were some of the comments:

Janet Williams, 16, Halifax, N.S.: "We discussed the question of a flag just a few nights ago over coffee and it's fair to say we all felt Canada should have its own flag."

"How are people at the UN to know we are not a colony of Great Britain if our flag is a rough copy of the Union Jack? We understand the relationship

(and it's one we wouldn't give up), but I'll bet the new African nations don't."

Irate Reader

An Irate Reader, Winnipeg, Man.: I'm sick and tired of all this discussion about a national flag. Don't people realize we already have one. If young people are getting stirred up about this, why don't they read our history?"

Chuck Thompson, 14, Vancouver, B.C.: "Three cheers for your column on the flag. Too often we listen to the politicians discussing decisions that will affect our future, not theirs. Thanks for giving us a chance to give our views. I'm in favor of a new flag that can be easily recognized as our own."

I should emphasize three things about our little poll, in case any of you are getting ready to put pen to paper again.

Before Unveiling

First, the original column was written weeks before Prime Minister Lester Pearson unveiled his flag. Secondly, I asked for readers to submit designs, so probably tilted the poll in favor of the pro-new flag group.

Finally, few polls prove anything, especially in a country as large as ours. But I do think ours proved that younger Canadians are more willing to accept a new flag than their elders.

Hit Parade

Justice has triumphed on the hit parade.

Weeks ago I said that Hello Dolly—and I meant the record featuring Louis Armstrong and his group—should go to the top of the hit parade if there was any justice in the world.

Several readers accused me of being "an old fogey." Others said this only proved again that I was against the Beatles and only displaying my jealousy of them in a sneaky way. Take a look at the hit parade this weekend.

Two of the best books I've seen on modern mathematics have just been released in Canada. Either you or your folks might enjoy perusing them this summer.

They are: The Number of Things, by Evans G. Valens, Clarke, Irwin & Co. Ltd., Toronto; and A Parent's Guide to the New Mathematics, by Evelyn Sharp, Clarke, Irwin & Co. Ltd., Toronto.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—New Yorkers are proud people... they're willing to accept a President of the United States as their equal.

There's an airy democratic irreverence about all authority when a chief executive comes here that makes these events memorable. President Johnson was rather late getting to Madison Square Garden the other night—partly due to a "crank threat," according to an unconfirmed rumor. Motion picture tycoon Joseph E. Levine hoisted himself from his expensive seat, grinned, and said to me:

"Who the blazes does LBJ think he is... Jimmy Walker?"

My B.W. and I had stopped off at CBS TV en route to the Garden to speak to Peter Lawford who was taping "Password."

You remember Peter used to be at all the JFK galas.

"Are you going to the Garden?" I asked.

"No, I wasn't," Peter paused, eloquently.

"Invited?" I said.

"You could say that," he said.

Johnny Carson claimed that he himself was late... "Somebody stopped and asked me directions to Albany. It was Gov. Rockefeller. He has to go there every two years to get his drivers' licence renewed." Carson told the Johnson daughters that they were lucky and so are the guys they date.

"It isn't every fellow who can sit with a girl on a couch in the White House while her father runs around the house turning out the lights... I went backstage to the Green Room" where, if you were nervous, you could get a drink. I was, and did. The stars were being casually Show Biz, even though the president was out front.

"Hey, Oll," somebody said, "you hear about the Jewish Indian?"

"No," "His name was Moe Hawk." Robert Merrill, who'd performed for five presidents, all the way back to FDR, was laughing about Johnny Carson introducing him as a tenor.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Anybody who thinks TV killed conversation in the home never had to pay the phone bill.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Zel de Cyr offers this simile: "About as useless as a bird-watcher in the subway."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Even children with perfect table manners will spill the beans now and then."—Arnold Glasgow.

EARL'S PEARLS: Hollywood, claims a recent visitor, is where couples stop going steady after the wedding.

Comic Rip Taylor, a bachelor, complains that the cleaning woman dusted his telephone table—and erased all his messages. That's earl, brother.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions to select to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hummel Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Roddy Fumerton, age 11, of Oromocto, N.B., Canada, for his question:

What causes the chinook wind?

The Chinook jargon was a brew of English, French and Indian words, used by early traders in the Northwest. It was named for the Chinook tribe, pronounced chinook, who lived in the Rockies. Settlers borrowed this word to welcome a warm wind that often blows there, even in mid-winter.

The chinook wind blows down the eastern Rockies of Canada and the northwestern United States. No one knows when to expect it, but old-timers often spot it ahead of time from signs in the sky. A curtain of pale grey clouds drapes half the sky, wide at the top and tapering down to meet the peaks of the mountains. In winter, the chinook is the most welcome of all winter events.

At the eastern foot of the mountains, the chilly air may be freezing layer upon layer of deep winter snows. Then the chinook arrives, puffing guests maybe as warm as 50 degrees. It brings warm, dry air that melts the snow, and more snow disappears into the air by evaporation. A visit from the chinook wind thins out the frosty blanket of wintry snows.

The same type of wind often blows down the northern slopes of the lofty Alps. Both winds are caused by adiabatic warming of air as it descends the slopes of a mountain range. Adiabatic cooling occurs when warm air expands and rises. Adiabatic warming occurs when cool air descends, becomes more compressed as it sinks.

Air Forced to Rise

The prevailing westerlies meet the High Rockies, and sometimes the air piles up in dense masses on their western slopes. This air is forced to rise up, over and down the eastern slope of the lofty range. As it rises, it expands and cools, and the cooler air must give up the surplus vapor it carries. It forms clouds that often drop snow and dripping showers on the peaks.

Then it swoops down the eastern slopes as a dry wind. At the top of the toboggan ride it is thin and cold, maybe minus 20 degrees. But as it sinks, it becomes dense and heavy. This compression causes adiabatic warming and the temperature of the wind rises about 5½ degrees with every 1,000 feet it falls. If the peaks are 14,000 feet high, the chinook wind that reaches the plains rises from minus 20 to plus 47 degrees.

In Switzerland, masses of air often pile up in the valleys on the southern slopes of the Alps. This air also is forced up and over the crests. As it rises, it expands and cools. As it descends, it becomes compressed and warmer. The people welcome it as the foehn wind, named for Favonius, the god who was thought to send balmy west breezes to the Mediterranean.

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book globe to Richard Nantz, age 9, of Charlotte, N.C., for his question:

What is a mackerel sky? A mackerel is a silvery-blue, slithery fish of the deep oceans, and no one would expect to find him up in the sky. However, the fishy fellow has a scaly skin, and sometimes the sky is covered with little clouds that look somewhat like the silvery-blue scales on the mackerel's back. This is what we call a mackerel sky.

Part of the blue sky is covered with a layer of little white clouds as round as fishy scales. They cast silvery-grey shadows that mix their soft colors with the soft blue of the sky peeping through the cracks. The soft colors and the scaly clouds look somewhat like the coat of a fishy mackerel—which is why this cloud pattern is called a mackerel sky.

Language Bars, Deafness Beset Coffin Murder Jury

By GERRY McNEIL
PERCE, Que. (CP)—Some of the members of the jury that judged Wilbert Coffin could not understand French and some could not understand English. Cornelius White was an exception. He could understand neither language a good deal of the time.

Mr. White, 65, admitted to the Quebec royal commission into the Coffin case Wednesday that he was so deaf during the trial that he may have missed half the testimony.

Mr. White said he couldn't remember.

There were more than 90 witnesses at the trial. Testimony was translated from French to English and vice versa by a court clerk. Wilbert Coffin was convicted and hanged for the murder of one of three slain American hunters.

Another juror, Zephirin Hotton, 72, also told the commission he had been slightly hard of hearing during the trial.

Jacques Hebert said in his book "J'Accuse les Assassins de Coffin" (I Accuse the Assassins of Coffin) that although the defence fought for an all-English jury, Judge Gerard LaRoche decided upon a mixed one. Half the members would be French-speaking and half English-speaking.

As it turned out, eight of those chosen normally spoke French and two more of the English jurors were of French descent.

Edmonton (CP)—Police and fire officials Wednesday probed the ruins of a soap factory to determine the cause of a series of explosions and a fire that killed two men Tuesday night and seriously injured two others.

Killed were William Osechewski Jr., 17, of Edmonton, and Reginald Putz of Calgary. The most seriously injured was Charles Francis of Calgary, a chemist with Harrison, Crossfield and Company. Also injured was William Osechewski, 40. The third injured man, Adolph Ossendoff, about 60, was manager of the Soapone Products Limited plant in northeast Edmonton.

Hospital officials said the injured men are in serious condition as a result of burns.

PATROLS IN SQUAMISH

SQUAMISH, B.C. (CP)—The Rural Garibaldi subdivision of this Howe Sound logging town where a 12-year-old school girl was brutally slain last week, is getting 24-hour police protection. RCMP disclosed Wednesday.

RCMP Staff-Sergeant B. C. Johnson, heading the probe into the murder of Judy Howey on a wooded trail, said the round-the-clock patrol of the area will continue indefinitely.

"We want to reassure the residents in the area that they are getting maximum protection," he said.

Microwave Project Announced by BCT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Plans for immediate construction of a $1,400,000 microwave system between Prince Rupert, Terrace and Kitimat to handle additional circuits to the lower mainland were announced today by B.C. Telephone Company.

H. F. Urquhart, vice-president of the operations, said the new radio system, to be completed by mid-1965, will meet growth in the area and provide an important alternate communications route.

He said the new system will be able to connect with the company's tropospheric scatter system now in service from Alaska, connecting with Vancouver Island and the lower mainland. It will also have connections from Prince Rupert eastward to the lower mainland.

Bob Precht, producer of "The Ed Sullivan Show," speaks fluent Russian. He learned the language while serving with U.S. Navy intelligence.

IN THE KOOTENAYS

Valley of the Swans Is B.C. Spectacular

Geese, ducks and swans announced their return to the Kootenays in the spring with a honk and a flap.

They lingered awhile, nested, then departed with the same honking refrain.

The scene was captured by photographer Bernard H. Atkins in the film "Valley of the Swans," produced by the provincial department of recreation and conservation, and previewed Wednesday at the National Film Board theatre.

The half hour wild life documentary, 18 months in the making, covers the four seasons of the year.

AT DUTCH LAKE
Filmed in the wild life preserve at Dutch Lake the Disney-like close-up shots of blue herons, red-wing blackbirds, ducks, porcupines, field mice and beetles, show birds and animals in their natural habitat. It was spectacular.

Even the change of seasons can be felt as the wind sweeps down through the Kootenay valley and whisks away the seed pods.

The fluted tune of the red-wing blackbird, and other songsters, are incorporated in the sound track from recordings made by Mrs. Grace Bell, who spends every spare minute beside her parabolic reflector and tape recorder.

The honking of Canadian geese passing overhead are from recordings made by naturalist, Dr. W. W. H. Gunn of Toronto.

Narrator is Bob Switzer and script was written by H. P. McKeever.

Charles Guiget of the provincial museum, Robert Harris of the Canadian Wild Life Services and government biologist Glen Smith assisted with the production of the film.

Power Boatmen Receive Awards For Sea Studies

Members of the Victoria Power Squadron received competition awards and training certificates at the annual banquet in the Ingraham Hotel Wednesday night.

A winter of study earned members certificates for courses including navigation, advance piloting and seamanship and marine electronics.

Winner of the squadron's predicted log race was Eth Minaker who skipped Windward.

Rear-Admiral W. M. Landy more presented navigation certificates to D. M. Boyd, J. R. Genge, E. T. W. Nash, H. M. Brundridge and Arthur Greenwood.

Junior navigation certificates were given by instructor Capt. Peter Thomas to Mrs. Viola Caton, Mrs. Grace Poulkes, Michael Fraser, Mrs. Jessie Lodge, Alec James and Mrs. Lillian Rivers.

Advance piloting and seamanship certificates were awarded to Reece Adamson, G. D. Browning, Harry Crosby, A. I. Dallain, Joe Dill, V. W. Griffin, J. S. Houston, Rex Kember, Eth Minaker, W. S. Plater, Alec Rawlings, George Reid, Alec James, Howard Schmitt and Mrs. K. D. Storie.

Substitute Drummer Off With Beatles

LONDON (UPI) — Hospital officials said today Ringo Starr, the musical Beatle with tonsillitis, was "a little better."

"He is managing to be quite cheerful," a spokesman said. Starr, the Beatles' drummer, was taken ill Wednesday. His mop-haired group left for a Copenhagen appearance today with Jimmy Nicol, 24, as the substitute drummer.

Power Is Needed President States

GROTON, Conn. (AP)—President Johnson said Wednesday the United States seeks peace in the world, "but common sense dictates that peaceful purposes must be supported by purposeful power."

He emphasized the peace-through-power theme in speeches both for workers in a Polaris submarine shipyard here and for graduates of the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn.

The U.S. is stronger militarily "than any adversary or combination of adversaries," Johnson told the coast guardsmen. But he added: "The staggering strength is not to destroy but to save, not to put an end to civilization but to put an end to conflict."

He predicted U.S. strength will continue to grow more rapidly than the might of others, and said "our adversaries, convinced that direct attack would be aimless, now resort to terror, subversion and guerrilla warfare."

The president said much the same to employees of the General Dynamics Corporation

Electric Boat Division, in connection with laying the keel for another nuclear submarine.

In New London, Johnson said the U.S. now has more than 1,000 fully armed intercontinental ballistic and Polaris missiles ready for retaliation and that the Soviet Union has far fewer, none ready to be launched beneath the seas.

He also said the U.S. has more than 1,100 strategic bombers, many of them equipped with air-to-surface and decoy missiles to help them reach almost any target. He estimated the Soviet Union could with difficulty send less than one third of that number over targets in the United States.

"Against such force the combined destructive power of every battle ever fought by man is like a firecracker thrown against the sun," Johnson said.

Arthur Mayse

Since we now have several Maydays from customers who yearn to write novels but have run hard aground on the first leg of the passage, I think today we will declare a literary forum and go to work on this problem.

Perhaps you already have a central idea and a background for a novel. If not, and just so you don't keep the rest of us waiting, permit me to donate one.

Michelle is a French-Canadian teacher from Montreal who because of circumstances which you can darn well figure out for yourself, has ventured west to the drowsily sophisticated city of Victoria. There she finds a spot in a girls' school which might as well be St. Felicity's, and captivates a lonely, difficult boarder whom we'll name Pamela, pronounced Poin.

The kid has acne, pinworms, and a widowed, cynical, but well-preserved daddy. Let's call him Peter Barfield, give him a home at Parksville, a job as general manager of Fellen & Bucken Timber Company, and a thwarted yearning to be a free-form sculptor.

(Warning: He can't be another French-Canadian. Make that error and you blow your story.)

Like the ethnic groups they represent, these three are going to blunder toward a unity which you, as author, may or may not grant them.

You see? In two minutes flat, we have the background and the big three of a novel.

So far, so good. We are now going to undertake some dreary chore like moving a lawn or ironing the Monday wash, and while our hands automatically go through the required motions, think about Michelle, Pamela and Peter.

This we will do until we feel we know them well enough to recognize them on the street. Then we will prepare a written dossier on each, also on the lesser characters who will by now have weaseled their way into your story.

Michelle: Age, 24. Weight, 115. Height, 5'3". Slender, with dark, straight hair worn short, and grey-blue eyes. Not a dash, but nice figure, with plain-pretty face and intelligent eyebrows, left one very slightly scarred where an English-Canadian child scored on her with a rock when she was six. No accent, but speaks the slightly over-precise English of one who learned the tongue in school.

Quiet. Good with children, but wary of men by reason of disastrous love affair with Englishman (married) in Paris two years previous.

And so on, until your file on each significant character is complete. By this time, if your imagination hasn't been killed stone-cold dead by too many years of television, a small miracle will have taken place.

Your people—Michelle, the kid with acne, even that rat in Paris—will be walking, talking and knocking sparks off each other as if they were flesh and blood humans.

When or if that happens, you're in, and had better reconcile yourself to the fact that Michelle and company will be more real to you than chick and child for the next several months.

I hate to put on the brakes, but we will now, for a week or thereabouts, hasten slowly. To be specific, we will drag ourselves back screaming to school, and for each of our chapters or sections, make an outline exactly as if this were a series of essays rather than a novel clamoring to be born.

At this point, any published part in the audience will depart in a gale of laughter. But you're not a professional, so be warned and don't shirk the plodding task. If you do, there's all too strong a chance that about page 33, you'll be wandering directionless in a peapod fog.

Now at last we're ready to start pitting down words which we hope will one day cause some briefcase-in-lap editor to overshoot his computer's stop by several stations.

Tackle the story from Michelle's viewpoint if you like, or switch from character to character in successive sections. But work always from within the character, a task which our spade-work will have made easier.

You will write for a minimum of an hour each day, with time added for the numerous pitiful little devices we employ in order to put off the plunge.

Come hell or high water, in spite of measles, growing spouses and visitations from relatives, you will undertake this daily stint.

Follow these directions, and sure as fewer characters mean less fat, you will one day find yourself with the completed first draft of a novel.

Since your publisher, if you find one, will change whatever title you put on it, we'll include in some literary thievery and call the opus, "Under Two Flags."

Your book may never land between covers, since the competition is tough. But, my, how proud you will be of Michelle, Peter, Pamela and yourself!

CAP BADGES worn by Canadian Scottish in two wars are shown by Major A. M. MacLennan. The lower one is the newest. It is larger by inclusion of 16 maple leaves, commemorating the 16th Battalion, famed in First World War. The major helped create the regiment's motto, "Ready for the Fray."

IT'S MORE OF SAME CLOUD AND RAIN

After four days of cloudy, showery weather, Victorians can look for another day or two of showery, cloudy weather.

Genesee Hill weather station predictions are for much of the same sort of weather as has been with us all June.

Winds should be freshening up to about 25-mile-an-hour southwesterlies, and there is a small craft warning out for Juan de Fuca Strait.

$7 Million Housing Complex Proposed For University Land

By AB KENT

Three high-rise apartment blocks in a complex of landscaped townhouses are suggested for the development of 35.5 acres of endowment lands at University of Victoria.

The proposed plan is a revision of an earlier concept for developing natural land at Lansdowne campus for revenue purposes and was received by the university today from Vancouver architects Fred Thomson Hollingsworth and Barry V. Downs.

It was going before a university development board meeting today and likely will be forwarded to Uvic board of governors. A representative group of the upper Lansdowne-Cedar Hill Cross Road community, which has had discussions with the development board, will be shown the plan later.

NATURAL CONTOURS
Its cost could be as high as $7,000,000.

In broad terms, the plan takes advantage of natural contours and tree growth on the land, which rises gently to a maximum of about 250 feet in the area between Foul Bay Road and the Saanich-Oak Bay boundary. All of the area lies within Oak Bay.

It is proposed that three apartment blocks of unspecified height—which could be determined later—be built in a group on about eight acres of the lower-lying land.

Suggested grouping of town houses is on an 8.5 acre block east of Foul Bay and the remaining acreage west to the Saanich boundary.

Apartment blocks would likely be no higher than the highest point of land in the area, or approximately 100 feet.

PAIRED UNITS

The architectural concept is for paired units of one-story town houses, built of white masonry, cedar shake roofs and stained natural woodwork.

They would be laid out according to contours so that view would always be preserved where possible. Their appearance would be in keeping with other single-family development in the area.

There would probably be sufficient revenue from the 200 town houses to maintain the entire development, leaving most of the apartment revenue for university purposes.

ORNAMENTAL TREES

Improvement to grounds would include pools, ornamental tree plantings, screening of parking areas and an access street off Foul Bay Road.

There would be a forested buffer area separating houses on Gibbs Road from the town houses.

One Beer Enough For 60-Day Stay In the Calabos

A driver who told police he'd had one beer, then fell over, today was sentenced to 60 days for impaired driving and driving without a license.

Carl Baker, of the Drake Hotel, pleaded guilty to both charges in city police court this morning.

He was arrested Wednesday evening by the same constable who had served him with a notice of suspension the day before.

Baker was paced for three blocks on Shelbourne about 9:30 Wednesday evening, and in order to stop him police had to pull up alongside his car with red lights and siren operating.

He leaned against a tree when he got out of the car, and told the arresting constable he had only one beer.

Then he fell over.

Baker has been previously convicted for impaired driving and driving while intoxicated.

Magistrate William Ostler sentenced him to 45 days for impaired driving and 15 days for driving while under suspension.

He also prohibited him from driving anywhere in Canada for 18 months.

'READY FOR THE FRAY'

By HUMPHRY DAVY

There's one man sure to be on parade when the battle-honored Canadian Scottish, commemorating its 50th anniversary, marches through the city Saturday.

He is 71-year-old Major Alexander M. MacLennan, 1121 Reynolds Road, who with Norman Cameron of White Rock, provided the regiment with its Gaelic motto, Deas Guath, meaning, "ready for the fray." It's a motto which the unit lived up to in two world wars.

Mr. MacLennan served as an officer with the 16th battalion in the First World War and with the first and second battalions in the Second World War.

He will march with the veterans when the Canadian Scottish parade to the Cenotaph on Belleville at 8 p.m. An hour earlier, the unit will participate in a ceremonial parade at Bastion Square where Mayor R. B. Wilson will confer the freedom of the city on the regiment.

'WOULDN'T MISS IT'

"I wouldn't miss the parade for anything," he said. "It's the best regiment in Canada. A total of 5,491 men passed through the unit in the First World War."

The story of how the unit got its motto begins when the 16th Battalion was sailing overseas aboard the Andonia in 1914.

The battalion was then composed of men from four highland regiments—the 50th Regiment (Gordon's), Victoria; the Seaforth Highlanders, Vancouver; the Argyll and Sutherland, Hamilton, Ont.; and the Cameron Highlanders, Winnipeg.

The men presented a curious spectacle. They each wore their own tartan and regimental badges.

ASKED FOR MOTTO

Lt.-Col. R. G. E. Leckie of Vancouver, the unit's first commanding officer, who was anxious to bring uniformity to the battalion, asked Col. H. M. Urquhart, then a lieutenant, to provide the unit with a motto.

Accountant Bill Luney Dies at 42

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon for Bill Luney, son of the late William Luney, co-founder of Luney Bros. and Hamilton Construction Ltd.

He died in hospital Wednesday, age 42.

Mr. Luney, who was born and educated in Victoria, was an army veteran of the Second World War and belonged to Uplands Golf Club and Victoria Chess Club.

He was also a past chairman of the Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants of B.C. He was employed as an accountant by Byron Price Ltd.

He is survived by the widow Doreen and daughters Laurie and Lesley at home, 1738 Green Oaks Terrace; mother, Mrs. Edith Luney; two brothers, Harold and Arthur, a half brother Alfred, all of Victoria, and another brother, Elwood, in California.

But the young officer, although of highland origin, didn't know Gaelic, and turned to Mr. MacLennan and Mr. Cameron, then serving as privates, to work out a motto. They were both well versed in the language.

"We went into a huddle," said Mr. MacLennan, "and suggested four mottos, especially recommending Deas Guath. It was accepted without question."

The cap badge was designed by Roy Sachs of Vancouver, killed in action later in the war.

In the First World War, Maj. MacLennan rose from private to the rank of captain. In 1916 he was wounded twice in the legs, but returned to the front in 1917 as an intelligence officer. He was awarded the MC and Bar.

In the Second World War, he served as a major with the first and second battalions.

His son Lt.-Col. Donald S. MacLennan, now taking a course at the staff college at Camberley, England, also served with the Canadian Scottish.

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, JUNE 4, 1964—PAGE 17

Fund Launched For Team Travel

Premier W. A. C. Bennett today opened a fund to pay ferry fares for young Vancouver Island sports teams with a $100 contribution.

An appeal for the Island Athletic Fund was launched after talks between government and private sports officials broke off in chaos.

The government's ferry authority dropped its offer of weekend group fares June 1.

Local sportsmen protested that it now costs almost double to finance team trips to and from the mainland.

Mr. Bennett refused to change the ferry decision, but instead launched a public appeal for bona fide sports groups.

ENCOURAGEMENT

"I want to do everything to encourage these young people and I am asking citizens who want to help the teams to contribute," Mr. Bennett said.

Mr. Bennett said that to allow weekend group rates would seriously hurt Vancouver Island's tourist trade.

So many groups are using the cut rates on weekends that the ferries become overcrowded, he said.

But bona fide sports groups account for only about two per cent of the group traffic, he said, and these are the people who deserve public support.

The premier's bid came after a meeting earlier this morning failed to bring about a solution.

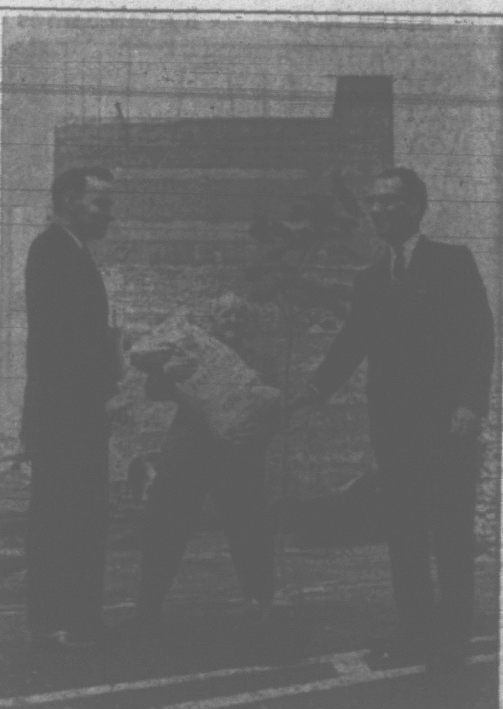

DECLINE CHAIR

Mr. Bennett's executive assistant, W. C. Budd, suggested that Social Credit M.L.A.s Waldo Skilling and J. Donald Smith chair the fund drive, but the two Victoria members withdrew after it was suggested this would give the fund a political connotation.

Doug Fletcher, president of the Sports Council of Greater Victoria, who was at the meeting, said afterwards that the only answer was a government subsidy or special permits for sports groups to get lower fares.

He said the public would not support another fund appeal. As much as $14,000 would be needed each year, he said.

Mr. Fletcher said it was strange that there would be room on the ferries for groups who paid their own way, but not enough room if they had cut fares.

Trail Folk Are Sure Maple Tree Will Grow

Sixty members of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce flew to Trail Wednesday, returning that night with a six-foot maple and an 80-pound bag of fertilizer.

The tree and fertilizer were flown back to Victoria Wednesday night.

This morning, Chamber president E. E. Pearman presented the gifts from Trail to Roderick Clack, head of the City's Special Projects branch.

Mr. Clack consulted his tree list for Centennial Square and specified a spot north of the planned fountain as the site for the "little bit of Trail."

The tree is to be planted in Victoria as a symbol of Victoria-Trail friendship.

Hand Carts Rejected By City Hall

An embarrassed Victoria city finance committee today turned down an application by two men to peddle ice cream and balloons on city streets and in the parks.

Phillippe Argieri and Lacio Cioagna said they would use a rubber-wheeled hand cart that met all sanitary and health requirements.

But committee replied pointing out that a city bylaw prohibits mobile sales units on city streets.

"I wonder why they applied when it's obviously against our bylaw," mused Ald. A. I. Curtis.

BIG EXCEPTION

"Well, you made one exception to the bylaw in the case of the Taste-Free mobile canteen and I'm afraid that's going to haunt you for a long time to come," city manager Dennis Young reminded the committee.

Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson, who joined Mayor R. B. Wilson in ardent but unsuccessful opposition to the council concession to Taste-Free, said it has drawn numerous complaints.

She indicated that she will consider a motion to withdraw the Taste-Free annual trades licence when it comes up for renewal next year—a move that would require unanimous consent of council.

FRIDAY MEETINGS

New Multi-Purpose Pliers
A Must for Sportsmen

By PENNY SAVER

It never fails! Every time I go on a fishing trip I come back with at least one hook embedded in an arm or leg. But this year, I'll at least be able to remove them myself (that is, of course, with help of multi-purpose, pocket-size pliers I bought yesterday.)

Pliers have exclusive parallel compound action that creates great cutting and holding power with minimum force.

Price is $4.75 and gadget has heat-treated alloy steel jaws and rust-resistant nickel finish. As well as being useful in emergencies, pliers can be used as a crimper, vise, hook bender, skinner, cutter, wrench and straightener.

Another problem that plagues me, is trying to keep my oversized ears warm while fishing in the wee hours of the morning.

Shop I bought the pliers in also had a solution for this—buy yourself an ear sweater, the manager told me.

And, to prove he wasn't kidding, he led me to a counter that was stocked with an array of 100-per-cent orlon acrylic ear sweaters.

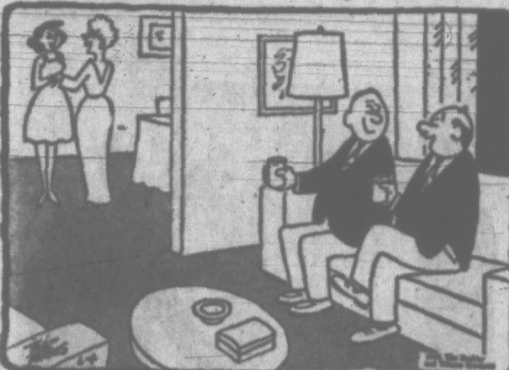

Made in the United States, sweaters are similar to an ordinary headband but are about twice the width and are worn farther down on your head. Price is $1.65 and colors include blue, black, white and orange.

And, fellows! These are not reserved exclusively for the female sports enthusiast. Manager assured me that many male golfers, fishers and track stars invest in them too.

So, if you're looking for something new in sporting equipment, call Penny at 882-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

18 Million North Americans Are Now 65 Years Old Or Older

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

The medical profession has conquered so many of the diseases of youth and early maturity and is learning so much about the chronic diseases of middle age and later that more and more folks are living longer and longer.

I was interested in learning that so many of these senior citizens live in their own households.

Three - fourths of them do so. Of this number 45 per cent are husbands and wives. Ten per cent have others living with them and 18 per cent live alone. Seventeen per cent live in the households of their children. Four per cent live in institutions, mostly homes for the aged and mental institutions. Three per cent are lodgers or resident employees.

The proportion of women is increasing. Seven in 10 men and four in 10 women are married. More than half the women are widows and one-fifth of the men are widowers. This vividly reflects the longer life expectancy of women.

About three million of these senior citizens are working. This includes about one-fourth of the men and one-tenth of the women. One in three men and one in five women who are working are self-employed.

Only two per cent of senior citizens have incomes of $10,000 or more, 13 per cent have an income of $3,000 to $10,000, 49 per cent have an income of $1,000 to $3,000 and 16 per cent have no income.

Seventy-five per cent of the couples own their homes, while only 40 per cent of those who are unmarried own their homes.

These statistics highlight certain facts. One: The necessity of preparing for old age, both financially and emotionally, during younger years. Two: The tremendous waste of talent and know-how which compulsory retirement creates.

Most women only experience semi-retirement because most of their duties continue. However, a wise woman begins letting-go-of-her-children psychologically long before they leave home.

Men who have lived for their jobs only, without developing hobbies or side interests, get a real jolt when the day arrives. The older years should be rich, full, fun years!

'Hard Sell' Tactics Come Under Fire of CAC Delegates

OTTAWA (CP)—Legal protection for Canadian housewives from fast-talking, door-to-door salesmen was advocated Wednesday at the annual meeting of the Consumers Association of Canada.

The 25,000-member national women's group, established to protect and guide consumers, is expected to approve a resolution today calling for a three-day, "cooling off" period after Canadians sign time-payment contracts at their door or any other place outside legal trade premises.

The 72 hours would give the consumer time to read the fine print and ponder whether the purchase will fit into her budget. If she decides against it, any monies given the salesman would be returned to her.

The 100 delegates already have passed resolutions urging the federal agriculture department to enforce more rigid inspection of Canadian food processing plants.

They also asked the department Wednesday to review its standard measurements and labelling requirements for fruit juice cans to ensure that labels in future state the correct fluid contents.

Other officers are: Vice-presidents, Mrs. J. A. Brown, Regina; Dr. H. E. English, Montreal; Mrs. John Hart, Ottawa; national secretary, Mrs. Douglas M. Fraser of Ottawa; treasurer, N. Glenn Ross of Ottawa.

Provincial representatives to the CAC executive include: Mrs. W. M. Auld, Winnipeg; Mrs. Don Neil, Saskatoon; Mrs. C. A. D. Ringrose, Calgary; and Mrs. A. B. Young, Victoria.

SOME MEASURES SHORT

The resolution was the result of a study conducted by the CAC showing the majority of standard 20-ounce cans did not, in fact, contain 20 fluid ounces.

Pauline Jewett, Liberal MP for Northumberland and a former member of the CAC national executive, told delegates she thought the government should set up a separate department of consumer affairs. She said this was the only way to ensure adequate protection of consumer interests in Canada.

Other CAC resolutions passed Wednesday included one urging the federal fisheries department to enforce compulsory grading of canned fish.

The CAC also wants the Canadian food industry to take steps to ensure more extensive laboratory testing for bacteria.

IS ONE FACE CREAM

"JUST AS GOOD" AS ANOTHER?

True, lots of creams are similar in doing a surface job only. But if your need is for a treatment cream that will effectively halt early-aging signs such as crow's feet, little lines, flakiness, then POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM is the answer. This famous cream, now with Allantoin, goes to work in just 10 minutes to repair skin robbed of natural moisture. Allantoin floats off lifeless surface skin cells... speeds penetration of Pond's rich moisturizing lanolin to thirsty tissues far below. Almost overnight, skin dried out by harsh weather, indoor heat, low-fat diets, regains its softness, smoothness... looks young again! Use POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM regularly. In jar or tube, wherever cosmetics are sold.

Seated at the head table with Mrs. Bennett were Mrs. Warren, Mr. and Mrs. William Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Burgess, Mrs. Evelyn Lowley and Mrs. Callan.

Highlight of fashion show was the new look in suits and coats for fall. Fabrics featured popular double-knit wools, silks, tweeds and plaids.

Styles ranged from slim-skirted three-piece suits to elegant evening sheaths topped with matching seven-eighths-length coats.

Modelling fashions were Rosalie Conarroe, Pat Wilson, Carol Miller, Mary Burgess, Rhoda Pagdin and Ivy Gray. Commentator was Jack Burgess.

General conveners were Mrs. S. Smethurst and Mrs. J. L. Cook. In charge of tickets and door were Mrs. P. J. Woolley, Mrs. R. G. Aitken, Miss E. F. Richardson and Mrs. G. Leeming.

Arrangements of spring blossoms and artificial flowers were used as tea table decor.

Conveners included Mrs. D. R. T. John and Mrs. H. Shemilt, candles and cookies; Mrs. V. Mawer, Mrs. C. Coleman, Mrs. R. B. Simm, Mrs. P. Bonnell, home cooking and delicatessen; Mrs. F. Harvey, aprons; Mrs. A. G. Hamilton, Mrs. H. V. O'Reilly, Mrs. W. H. Bradbeer, Mrs. W. R. Roskelley, Mrs. A. Mawer, Mrs. A. Curtis, raffles.

Tea was convened by Mrs. C. Douglas and Mrs. E. R. Owen, assisted by Mrs. H. Jackson, Mrs. W. Green, Mrs. F. Campbell and Mrs. A. Peddie. Servitutes were members of Royal Purple Lodge, Women's Auxiliary, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks and members of Evening Opti-Mrs.

Mrs. G. F. Hillard and Mrs. A. G. Hamilton were in charge of publicity.

Proceeds amounted to $850.

Women Ask for Legislation To Stop Hate Literature

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—The National Council of Women of Canada unanimously approved a resolution Tuesday night asking for legislation to provide stronger safeguards against the dissemination of hate literature.

Telegrams were sent immediately to the prime minister, the minister of justice and the postmaster general, informing them of the resolution.

The resolution, passed at the second day of the four-day annual meeting, urges:

"Amendments to the existing provisions of the Criminal Code of Canada to provide stronger safeguards against situations of racial discrimination and religious intolerance while continuing to respect the fundamental rights of the individual; and specifically to examine the use of public media of communication which seeks to arouse racial antagonism, violence and hatred against any ethnic, religious or racial group."

Earlier in the day, delegates passed an amendment to a resolution on birth control which had been approved Monday.

The resolution now urges that section 150 of the Criminal Code be changed to make distribution of birth control information by qualified persons legal.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Sober Up, Honey!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: There is a very attractive bachelor living in my apartment building. I am single, too. We have become quite friendly of late, and have invited each other in for a drink, conversation and television. I drink nothing but ginger ale, but whenever he serves it to me I have had the feeling that it was spiked. When I accused him of this he became very indignant and swore he never did. I've watched him carefully but haven't been able to catch him at it, yet I continue to get that high, exhilarated feeling when we're drinking together. Could it be my imagination?

FEELING HIGH
DEAR FEELING: If he is not spiking your ginger ale, he is even more dangerous because he is intoxicating you with his company. Stay out of his apartment.

DEAR ABBY: Our beautiful 23-year-old daughter is engaged to a fine young man whom she has dated all through college. She is our only daughter and we have the means to give her a storybook wedding. The problem: The young man's mother in an invalid and seems to be fading fast. He wants to be married at a quiet ceremony at her mother's bedside as her doctors say she cannot leave her bed or stand too much excitement. Do you think this is fair to our daughter? Deep down in her heart I know she must be terribly disappointed, but she loves him so much she readily agreed. I am heartaick, and so is our entire family. Why can't the couple have a quiet ceremony at his mother's bedside and then be married again at a beautiful church wedding? Others have been married by a justice of the peace and then remarried in a church. If any of your readers have ever faced this problem, I'd appreciate knowing how they handled it.

A MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Your daughter is showing more good judgment and compassion than you are. Your "storybook" wedding, following a bedside ceremony, would reduce the church ceremony to a performance.

New York Fair Vast and Ugly But Still Fun

By SHIRLEY CONRAN

NEW YORK—The New York World's Fair, still not quite finished, is as vast and enjoyable as it is ugly and unco-ordinated.

Parts of it, notably the Avenue of Progress, have a strangely 1930s aura. Parts of it have the impermanent cardboard quality of a science-fiction film lot, notably the huge central, stainless-steel armillary sphere, the symbol of the fair.

This has the arid heaviness of modern Russian sculpture and is, unfortunately, permanent.

Certainly the gusty vulgarity of the fairground is missing, and so is the architectural merit that one might hope for in a country that has most of the world's best architects.

'And All Are Fascinating'

However, once you stop down your lens and look at one stand at a time only, some of the buildings are intriguing, one or two are superb and all are fascinating.

The woolly theme of the fair, "Peace Through Understanding," is hardly in evidence; the universal message, if any, seems to be co-existence through cash.

Generally, too, the standard formula for stand-planning is a culture-industry crowd-drawing gimmick, with a traffic flow so well controlled that you have to see the art and machinery part before you reach the central object.

At the low, brick Illinois Pavilion, designed by Skidmore, Owings and Merrill, you must stand through a film extolling Illinois before the apparently solid end-wall of the pavilion reveals itself as a bank of doors which fling open for the audience to rush into the theatre beyond and watch the life-size plastic, wire-and-valve-filled, moving, talking figure of Abraham Lincoln.

Lincoln Creepily Human

The audio, "animatronic" Mr. Lincoln is programmed by a tape from a central control room, like a missile. His 250,000 action combinations include all of 15 facial expressions among them "sad" and "sceptical"—his speech on liberty, civil rights and freedom displays all 15.

At times the dummy seems creepily human, thanks partly to a disconcerting nervous twitch in his right cheek. During some of his longer pauses I found myself crossing my fingers as you do when an actor fluffs his lines. The open areas of the fair are as well organized as the exhibits, with plenty of bench-lined wide paths, lots of grass that you don't have to keep off, fountains, dreamy piped music and 3,000 Pinkerton cops to keep everything and everyone under control. Some of them look almost human too.

It is ideal entertainment for children.

Cobbled Hong Kong Street

The cobbled Hong Kong street has a background medley of tinkling Chinese music and rickshaw clatter, a foreground waltz of synthetic harbor stench compounded of fish, tar, petroleum and glue.

The fair is loaded with jet-age fantasy. It is difficult to get within dinosaur reach of the Ford Rotunda, which is attracting male visitors as if it were a free strip show. Some 45,000 people a day are seated in their convertibles, which take off on a half-mile, 12-minute ride through history, with commentaries in the language of your choice, moving past prehistoric scenes, complete with flying pterodactyls and life-size moving "audio-animatronic" animals and cave men. The ride finishes with a miniature panoramic view of the space city of the future as predicted by Walt Disney.

We return, unreluctantly, to 1964 living conditions; the large Pavilion of American Interiors shows 14 room-settings sensibly designed for small homes. Ancient and modern furniture is mixed against the new stimulating background shades of violet, mustard, pink, plum and purple.

Boondocks Don't Hide Hordes of Teachers

Hopes for a vast, untapped source of teacher material in the boondocks of B.C. appear shattered by an education department survey conducted by news-paper ads.

Although the full survey is only half-finished, a spokesman in the teacher recruitment division said initial response shows that outlying areas do not have the teacher potential that some persons believed.

Most of the 360-odd returned questionnaires found their mark in the metropolitan areas of the province, he said.

The response was "rather more than most of us expected," the official said. Some replies are still trickling in, although the deadline has passed.

In an effort to ease the teacher shortage, advertisements were placed in newspapers advising anyone with university education interested in the teaching profession to send in the questionnaire.

These applications are being processed for sending on to district superintendents, who will obtain supplementary information.

Some matters are better handled by personal interview, the official explained. For example, a prospective teacher's mobility, or degree to which he is rooted in his present home.

This factor is an important part of the survey, inasmuch as the remoter areas are in greater need of teachers and supply the fewest applicants.

No Flag Filibuster, Dief Says

By CARL MOLLINS

TORONTO (CP)—Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker turned aside Wednesday night an election challenge issued by Prime Minister Pearson, saying the government is safe because the smaller opposition parties have been sewn up with higher parliamentary pay.

Mr. Diefenbaker told the York Scarborough Progressive Conservative Association the parliamentary party will battle to block adoption of the maple leaf flag. However, he added, "we're not going to filibuster."

Spurning the idea of making the flag an electoral issue, Mr. Diefenbaker said that "a general election on this question will separate this country for years and generations to come." He suggested a plebiscite might be one way to choose a flag. The previous night, in a speech to the national Liberal council in Ottawa, Mr. Pearson accused the opposition of obstruction but said his minority government intends to carry on. "The responsibility for an election remains now with the opposition," he said.

Mr. Diefenbaker, addressing an overflow crowd of 575 at the suburban dinner dance, retorted that the prime minister knows he stands in no danger from "his allies"—the Social Credit, Creditiste and New Democratic parties — because the government voted MPs a pay increase to $18,000 a year.

'LOVE MONEY MORE'

"It had a wonderful effect on third-party support," he said.

On the flag vote, the attitude would be "not that I love the Red Ensign less, but $18,000 more."

He drew the loudest burst of applause in the hour-long address when pointed towards two Red Ensigns on the wall behind him and declared:

"A flag that does not contain the greatness of your heritage is no flag for a nation."

On Mr. Pearson's obstruction charges, he said the government is obstructing itself by indecision, fluster and connivance with the smaller parties.

"This is the government of diplomacy," he said. "When there is opposition to anything they back up."

He charged the flag proposals were changed to please Liberal Premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland, who wants the Union Jack retained. The Canada Pension Plan was delayed in the face of provincial opposition, budget proposals were altered to ally United States fears and redistribution of electoral seats has been postponed "because of connivance between the NDP and Liberal parties."

He quoted Mr. Pearson as saying Canada is two nations.

"Two nations, two flags, two anthems — you can't build a country on this kind of duplicity."

HAS BIGGEST TURNOVER

The 1962 turnover of goods at the port of Rotterdam totalled 96,600,000 tons, compared with 92,600,000 at the port of New York.

PROF. QUILTS, CHARGES UBC 'FAVORITISM'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A professor has resigned from University of B.C.'s college of education "because of the dismal prospect for its professional and scholarly growth."

Dr. Frederick E. Ellis, 48, described by associates as a brilliant scholar, said promotions at the college "are based on who you know rather than what you know."

Professor Ellis charged dissatisfaction is rife among professors with high academic qualifications.

In his letter of resignation to president John B. Macdonald, Dr. Ellis said future leadership of a high order "is virtually impossible as long as present policies of favoritism are adhered to by the administration of the faculty."

The only 100% Colombian coffee ever offered in Canada!

Today across Western Canada, a new refinement in the cherished enjoyment of good coffee begins — with Boban. The supreme flavor and higher cost of new Boban Coffee are explained by a single fact: Boban is the only blend of pure Colombian Coffees ever offered in Canada. Colombian Coffees are the finest in all the world, hand grown and harvested on the steep slopes of the Andes Mountains, where the rich earth and mild year 'round temperatures create a paradise for coffee. Infinite care makes Boban possible. First the grower must plant tiny seedlings by hand and tend these constantly until their fifth year, when the plump red berries containing coffee beans appear.

Harvesting at just the right time is essential. But the berries do not ripen all at once, so each tree is hand-picked several times. The crop is incredibly small: a good tree yields enough berries for little more than one pound of coffee each year. But what superb coffee!

A little more expensive... but worth it!

Experts judge the quality of many coffee brands by the amount of Colombian in the blend. Pure Colombian Coffee is a rarity. And Boban is a gourmet blend of 100% Colombian Coffees, brought to you fresh in vacuum sealed bags.

You can't imagine how good it tastes. So try it today.

IWA VOTING COSTS UNION $10,000

VANCOUVER (CP) — A vote among the Coast's 26,000 woodworkers on a new contract proposal will cost the International Woodworkers of America at least $10,000.

The vote, which began May 24, is to be completed by Monday.

The $10,000 will be spent in taking ballot boxes to the men, many of them in remote areas, and sending in men to conduct the balloting in outlying camps.

Plane, boat and cars are being used to distribute the ballots. One IWA boat is plying night and day between Vancouver and coastal points with loads of ballot boxes.

The woodworkers are voting on a settlement proposal submitted by conciliation officer E. P. Fisher for a 28-cent hourly increase over two years on the present basic rate of $2.08.

City to Buy Corner Lot From Itself

The city is buying a parcel of land from itself in order to gain clear title.

The land is a large corner lot at Kings and Wark Streets, former site of a clapboard school used mostly in recent years as a storage place, and now demolished.

It was many years since trustees made use of the building as a public school, but during the war it had been a technical training establishment.

Original land owner was the Wark family, whose estate covered much of the Kings-Hillside area about 80 years ago.

Trustees of the estate turned the land in question over to the city for school purposes, but title remained in the name of the family. Due to incomplete records, the actual ownership could not be proved and the city put the land up for tax sale.

Meanwhile, a cabinet order was required to relinquish school board interest in the parcel, and this was granted Tuesday.

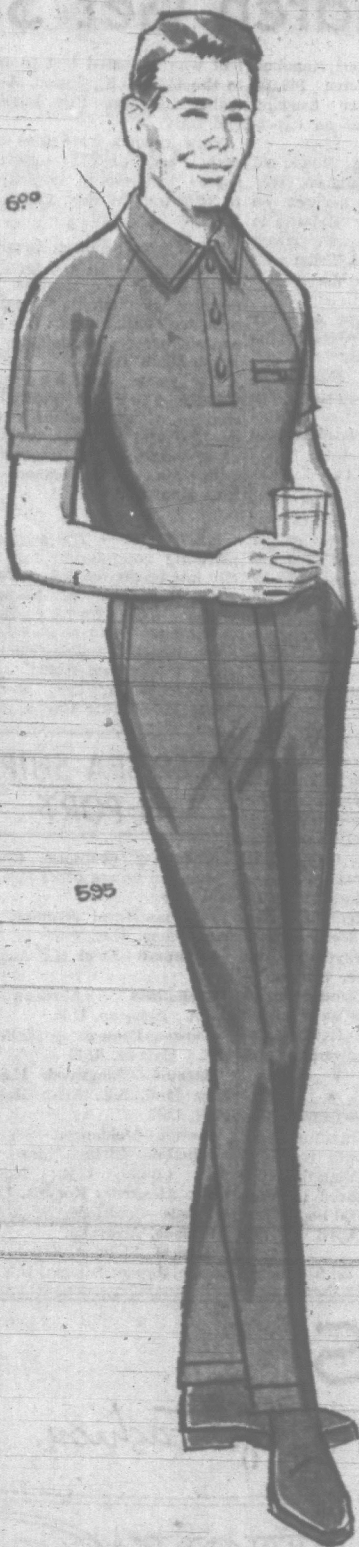

After a specified waiting period, up in November, the land will belong to the city to dispose of as council sees fit.

Mansfield Scores In Montana

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—Sen. at Majority Leader Mike Mansfield scored an easy victory in Montana's Democratic primary election Tuesday, defeating former congressman Joseph P. Monaghan in his attempt for a political miracle.

Mansfield, 61, swept all 56 counties. In the November election, he will face Alex Blewett, 51, Great Falls lawyer and legislator who was an easy winner in the Republican primary.

BOMB FOUND AT BASE OF QUEBEC MONUMENT

QUEBEC (CP)—Ten sticks of dynamite, bundled together and attached to a 10-foot fuse, were discovered today at the foot of the Boer War Monument, just inside the walls of Quebec City and in sight of the Legislature Building.

A home-made bomb was found at the same spot last weekend.

Police said the dynamite sticks were tied together with string and wrapped in a piece of cloth.

Apparently, police said, no attempt had been made to light the fuse. There was a detonator cap on the package.

PUBLISHER SPEAKS:

One Defence Head Wrong

OTTAWA (CP)—Richard S. Malone, publisher of the Winnipeg Free Press and a wartime brigadier, said today integration of the defence headquarters command structure is tremendously forward-looking but may be jeopardized by the "supreme principle" of a single chief of staff.

He told the Commons defence committee that the armed forces can be more effectively directed by a civilian-military defence council than by a single officer. The council should be directly under the minister instead of the chief of the defence staff.

Mr. Malone, one-time special assistant to the late Col. J. L. Ralston, wartime defence minister, said: "If you start off with this one error, the whole system could break down."

No committee members disputed his view. Mr. Malone was left cooling his heels for 33 minutes before the 24-member committee got a quorum of 13 to begin the hearing.

Mr. Malone said that to establish anything in the nature of a commander-in-chief, regardless of title, would be a fatal error.

CREATE A 'GOD'

Creation of a single chief might be creation of a "god" for the armed forces. The single chief might gather only yes-men around him and, no matter how able, make serious errors of judgment.

The job was far too big for any one person.

Defence decisions and authority should be based on a defence council of civilian and military personnel with the minister participating in the decisions and answerable to parliament for them.

Mr. Malone said the commander-in-chief system has failed repeatedly in recent years in Canada and elsewhere.

Gen. A. C. L. McNaughton had been such a powerful figure during the war that the government had some hesitancy about vetoing actions it felt should be vetoed.

Lt-Gen. Guy Simonds had not been made chief of the general staff at the end of the war because the government feared he would prove too difficult and autocratic.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur had had to be removed from command in Korea because he had become such a dominant figure he could dispute the authority of the U.S. president.

"Buckling the hierarchy of the Canadian army is a very tough thing," Mr. Malone said.

Deportation Stalled

MONTREAL (CP)—The scheduled deportation of Joseph Bonanno, alias Joe Bonanno, linked with the Cosa Nostra crime syndicate in the United States, was halted at least temporarily today when his lawyers gave notice they will apply for a writ of habeas corpus.

RIOTERS in South Korea have demanded President Chung Hee Park cancel talks with Japan, Korea's ancient enemy. Park today threatened to place all of nation under martial law. (AP Wirephoto.)

DISHPAN RED

Water-Filled Undies Cool Spacemen

HOUSTON, (AP)—A suit of long-sleeved, water-filled with 144 tiny water pipes could prevent astronauts from getting "dishpan red" all over during a space flight.

Manned spacecraft centre engineers are developing a water-cooled undergarment to replace the oxygen cooling system now used in space suits.

In past flights, astronauts have emerged from the space suit dripping with perspiration, looking as if they had spent hours in a dishpan.

Research into conductive cooling for space suits has been led by a young British doctor, John Billingham.

A factory-made suit built to specifications was put to use in an experiment with engineer G. Freedman wearing the garment and walking a treadmill for an hour at a time.

He wore the water-cooled underwear under a cumbersome and heavy Mercury space suit. Despite the brisk walk and the heavy clothing, his skin temperature stayed at 32 degrees, nine degrees below normal, which was satisfactory.

Typhoid Epidemic At 'Day of Destiny'

ABERDEEN—The total number of cases in Aberdeen's typhoid epidemic rose to 318 today, and the city health officer warned the disease may sweep through the British Isles.

During the night 17 more persons were admitted to hospitals, making a total of 335 confirmed cases and 43 suspected.

"Today is the probable watershed," said city health officer Ian MacQueen, "the probable dividing line, the day of Aberdeen's destiny."

The incubation period of typhoid is about 15 days and the outbreak was discovered two weeks ago.

"From today and certainly from Friday, it will be possible to say that most new admissions caught the disease after we knew that typhoid existed in the city."

"If there is no reduction in new cases today and tomorrow, then dirt, carelessness, ignorance and apathy will have triumphed over all our efforts."

In that case, Dr. MacQueen said, the epidemic "could become a national danger."

SEIZED BY BRITISH in Bahamas waters off Anguilla Cay Monday, these members of an apparent anti-Castro raiding party were photographed as they disembarked from the destroyer Decoy at Nassau Wednesday. Only one identified is American freelance photographer Andrew St. George, in light shirt. Rebel leader Manolo Ray was reported among the captured Cubans. They were fined, freed. (AP Wirephoto.)

Odds on Major Flood 'Ten to One Against'

BIG BRASS BOYCOTTS D-DAY RITES

OMAHA BEACH, France (UPI)—Thousands of Canadian, British and American war veterans converged on the Normandy beaches today for two days of ceremonies commemorating the 20th anniversary of the D-Day June 6, 1944, landings.

French President Charles de Gaulle, who was not let in on the secrets of Allied invasion planning, will not be present. He was sending two French cabinet ministers to represent him.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and British Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, the men who led the invasion forces, also were not attending.

Major concern now is whether or not the Fraser River will flood its banks in the Lower Mainland.

Mr. Williston said current flooding is mostly localized and in areas which get flooded every year.

"The major problem areas are the Kootenays and the lower Fraser," he said.

"The situation doesn't give us cause for alarm yet."

"Chances of a flood of major proportions are reduced to about one in 10," he said.

Mr. Williston said this chance gets longer every day.

The only thing that could reverse the situation, he added, would be a period of "hot rain"—very warm temperatures and plenty of rain.

The level of the Fraser continues to rise.

Resources Minister Ray Williston said today the chances of a major B.C. flood are 10 to one against and lessening every day.

He made the statement despite growing concern about flooding in north central B.C.

Flooding on the Skeena and Bulkley rivers has cut roads and rail lines and forced evacuations and closing of schools.

However, provincial officials believe these two rivers may now have reached their crests and the water is already receding.

Anti-Castro Chief Nabbed By British

One of 8 Fined, Released

(Times News Services)

NASSAU — Manuel (Manolo) Ray, anti-Castro rebel leader who had vowed to be fighting in Cuba May 20, was reported to be one of eight persons picked up Monday by the Royal Navy destroyer Decoy in the Bahamas.

This was confirmed today by a police official who declined to permit use of his name.

Six Cubans and two American photographers were taken off the Decoy today.

They were fined $14 each and freed. They planned to return to Miami.

A police official finally confirmed growing speculation that one of the Cubans was Ray, the dapper, 39-year-old head of the Cuban revolutionaries junta.

Ray, first public works minister in the Fidel Castro regime, defected after 14 years in the post and began building an anti-Castro underground. He fled to Florida in a small boat in November, 1960.

FIGHT AGAIN

For the last year, he had persistently promised the Cuban exile colony that he would be fighting again on Cuban soil—or be dead—by May 20.

One news source said only that although one of the seized Cubans bore a strong resemblance to Ray, but he said his name was Manuel Martinez.

"That's the name he gave us," Assistant Police Commissioner George Lovell said. "Several people who know him think he is Ray. We are still trying to find out."

The two Americans taken from a fast, armed launch after a chase by the Decoy Monday were Andrew St. George of New York, a free lance press photographer, and Tom Dunkin, also a New York photographer and a former Florida newspaper man.

UNABLE TO LAND

Ray's presence in the party meant that he apparently was unable to make good on his promise to infiltrate Cuba by the May 20 deadline.

The Decoy took five of the eight persons off a small launch after a 14-mile chase off Anguilla Cay in the Bahamas, 30 miles north of the coast of Cuba. The three others were captured on the island by a landing party.

The launch carried guns, 1,000 rounds of ammunition and a large supply of fuel, along with equipment of the photographers. British authorities assumed that the party had planned to raid Cuba.

FOUR HOSTAGES HELD BY BOLIVIAN MINERS

LA PAZ (AP)—Tin miners at Catavi, 215 miles south of La Paz, have seized four municipal officials as hostages, the Bolivian government's tin mining company announced today. The officials were not identified.

Press dispatches said the miners declared they were acting in reprisal for "political arrests" in La Paz.

Last December the Catavi miners held 17 persons hostage in a dispute with the government. The December hostages included four Americans, a Dutchman and a West German. All were released.

OTTAWA (CP)—Well-informed political sources say the Liberals have made some changes in their party structure in line with requirements laid down in top-level talks with the New Democrats for possible merger of the two parties.

These sources give the following account of discussions between the two parties:

The requirements were spelled out for the Liberals after a meeting last December between Finance Minister Gordon, Liberal national organizer Keith Davy, New Democratic Leader T. C. Douglas, Deputy Leader Douglas Fisher and NDP Vice-President David Lewis.

Prime Minister Pearson was to have attended but was ill. He had agreed to the talks to explore a basis for co-operation between the minority Liberal government and the New Democrats for this Parliament and possible eventual union of the two parties after the next federal election.

Apart from generally similar views on a legislative program, the New Democrats insisted that the Liberal party needed certain structural changes before any large number of their followers could agree to a merger.

MOST NOW IN EFFECT

Some of these changes already were being pressed for by Liberal constituency associations. Most were put into effect or will come into effect as a result of the Liberal national council meeting here this week.

The New Democrats told the Liberals there were at least five requirements essential to pave the way for eventual merger.

They were:

1. A national convention every two years: This was adopted by the Liberal national council Monday when a recommendation of the policy committee calling for a convention every three years was amended from the floor. Mr. Pearson made a

Kremlin Hints Split With China Party Due

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda indicated today the Kremlin may be thinking of formally severing ties between the Communist parties of the Soviet Union and China.

"The threat of a split is a reality which the world Communist movement must reckon with," said an article in the Soviet Communist party newspaper.

"Marxist-Leninists do not want a split, but unity cannot be attained through concessions on matters of principle, nor does it come by itself."

It was one of the strongest Soviet statements yet on relations between the Soviet and Chinese governments. The diplomats believe the Russians want to keep some lines of communication open.

Another view came from the Paris Aurora, which groups the Goldwater victory with indications of "America taking a firmer attitude toward communism."

The middle-road provincial paper Paris Normandie said Goldwater's victory showed "there is an important fraction of Americans who are attracted by the policy of force."

Italian papers had headlines telling of a strong shift to the right in the Republicans. Rome's Avanti, socialist party organ, asked: "A fascist adversary for Johnson?"

In Moscow, the Soviet newspaper Literary Gazette compared Goldwater's career to that of Hitler.

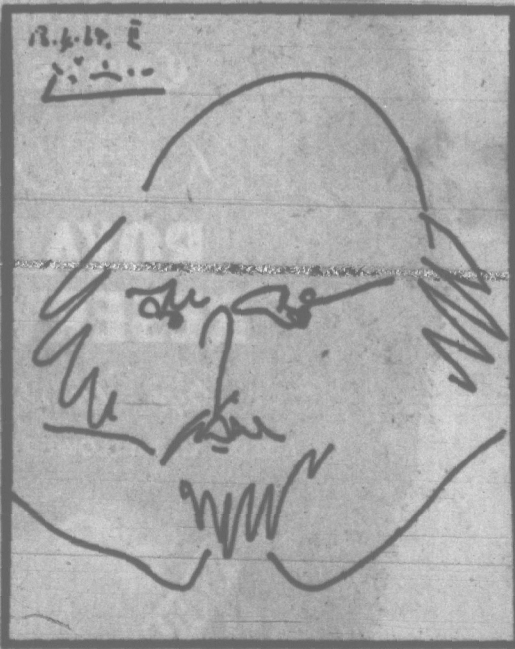

"At the beginning," the paper says, "Hitler also wasn't taken very seriously and this was very expensive to mankind."

MARKET SUMMARIES

Prices Sag on Wide Front

Prices were substantially lower on major stock exchanges as the most active stock, leading Chrysler which lost a fraction, joined in the retreat.

Range at Toronto was sharply lower in moderate afternoon trading, and western oils sagged. Wall Street took one of the steepest declines of the year, putting averages below a support level which has existed for nearly three months.

Montreal was down substantially, with trading moderate.

AT TORONTO Home A led the decline with a loss of 1/2 to 1 1/2. Pacific Petroleum and Great Plains Development were each off 1/2 to 1 1/2 and 1 1/2 respectively. Central Del Rio eased 20 cents to $8.20.

Key industrial issues felt the full power of sellers. Inter-provincial Pipe Line slumped 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 while Algonquin Steel was dumped for a loss of 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 and CPR 1 to 1 1/2. Other one point losers were Massey-Ferguson at 28 1/2 and Canada Iron at 37 1/2.

AT NEW YORK motors, steel, rails, copper, airlines, oils, drugs, retail, farm-implements and other major groups joined in the retreat.

AT MONTREAL International Nickel fell 1/2, Home Oil A 1/2, Falconbridge and Trans-Canada Pipe Line 1/2 each, and Domett and Crush International 1/2 each.

In speculative mines on the Canadian exchange, Mount Pleasant and Surliga lost one cent each and Equity 1/2 cent. Chipman Lake gained 1/2 cent.

AT LONDON, gilt-edged were dull and most dollar stocks eased.

Industrials were mixed and quiet. Several leaders, including ICI, Courtauld, EMI, Bowater and Leyland Motor were ahead. Weaker were GEC, Marks and Spencer and Bovril.

Oils improved, golds were dull, tin improved.

AT VANCOUVER, trading was moderate. Bethlehem Copper was down at $6.35 and Endako at $9.10. Highland Bell climbed to $6.35 while Western Mines dropped to $5.25.

Silver Standard was down at $7.75 and Massey-Ferguson at $27.75. Pacific Petroleum dropped to $14 and Futurity to $9.

Copper, lead, zinc, gold, silver and possibly platinum are being sought.

Access roads now are being cut and work is planned immediately on the next steps of mapping, trenching and, as warranted, diamond drilling in the area near the north fork of the Granby River some 20 miles west of Lower Arrow Lake.

Record Season
VANCOUVER (CP)—The port of Vancouver, currently ahead of the 1961-62 record season for grain exports, is hoping to break the 300,000,000 bushel mark this season.

Total exports so far this year amount to 164,700,000 bushels following a better than average month in May. Grain berths are working near capacity.

Dividend Declared
VANCOUVER (CP)—Paul M. Marshall, president of Columbia Cellulose Company Ltd., announced Tuesday that the board of directors has declared a semi-annual dividend of 10 cents per share on the company's common stock.

The dividend will be paid June 30 to shareholders of record June 12, 1964.

On the contrary. Though they sound alike, they're poles apart.

Sloe Gin—flavoured with sloes—is a sweetish and aromatic. Our "slow" gin—Barnett's Sterling—is a juniper gin; a London Dry Gin. With the emphasis very much on dry.

Why do we call it a "slow" gin? Because it's made slowly—the old-world way. In small, unburied batches.

The whole process is rather like home cooking. Watching, sniffing, testing, we hover over Sterling's distillation. What sets the slow pace is our little English Pot Still. Like one you see on the right.

These seasoned old-timers are more than 100 years old. We brought them from England in the 1920s—when we imported Barnett's complete distillery.

Compared with today's huge, automatic stills, our old copper Pot Still is a miniature—and a slowpoke. In the time they take to make one gallon of gin, some of their modern counterparts are mass-producing ten.

We'd save money by switching to such monsters. But our Barnett's Sterling would no longer be a "slow" gin. And it wouldn't taste the same.

GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Most prices were firm in rather dull trading today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, but some irregularity appeared in rye and rapeseed.

CHICAGO (AP)—Transactions in the grain futures market were virtually at a standstill in the early afternoon today with prices mostly little changed on the Board of Trade.

Arthur Mayse

Since we now have several Maydays from customers who yearn to write novels but have run hard aground on the first leg of the passage, I think today we will declare a literary forum and go to work on this problem.

Perhaps you already have a central idea and a background for a novel. If not, and just so you don't keep the rest of us waiting, permit me to donate one.

Michelle is a French-Canadian teacher from Montreal who because of circumstances which you can darn well figure out for yourself, has ventured west to the drowsily sophisticated city of Victoria. There she finds a spot in a girls' school which might as well be St. Felicity's, and captivates a lonely, difficult boarder whom we'll name Pamela, pronounced Pom.

The kid has acne, pinworms, and a widowed, cynical but well-preserved daddy. Let's call him Peter. Michelle, give him a home at Parkville, a job as general manager of Fellem & Bucken Timber Company, and a thwarted yearning to be a true-form sculptor.

(Warning: He can't be another French-Canadian. Make that error and you blow your story.)

Like the ethnic groups they represent, these three are going to blunder toward a unity which you, as author, may or may not grant them.

You see? In two minutes flat, we have the background and the big three of a novel.

So far, so good. We are now going to undertake some dreary chore like mowing a lawn or ironing the Monday wash, and while our hands automatically go through the required motions, think about Michelle, Pamela and Peter.

This we will do until we feel we know them well enough to recognize them on the street. Then we will prepare a written dossier on each, also on the lesser characters who will by now have weaseled their way into your story.

Michelle: Age, 24. Weight, 115. Height, 5'5". Slender, with dark, straight hair worn short, and grey-blue eyes. Not a dash, but nice figure, with plain-pretty face and intelligent eyebrows, left one very slightly scarred where an English-Canadian child scored on her with a rock when she was six. No accent, but speaks the slightly over-precise English of one who learned the tongue in school.

Quiet. Good with children, but wary of men by reason of disastrous love affair with Englishman (married) in Paris two years previous.

And so on, until your list

on each significant character is complete. By this time, if your imagination hasn't been killed stone-cold dead by too many years of television, a small miracle will have taken place.

Your people—Michelle, the kid with acne, even that rat in Paris—will be walking, talking and knocking sparks off each other as if they were flesh and blood humans.

When or if that happens, you're in, and had better reconcile yourself to the fact that Michelle and company will be more real to you than chick and child for the next several months.

I hate to put on the brakes, but we will now, for a week or thereabouts, hasten slowly. To be specific, we will drag ourselves back screaming to school, and for each of our chapters or sections, make an outline exactly as if this were a series of essays rather than a novel clamoring to be born. At this point, any published pro in the audience will depart in a gale of laughter. But you're not a professional, so be warned and don't shirk the plodding task. If you do, there's all too strong a chance that about page 38, you'll be wandering directionless in a peaspout fog.

Now at last we're ready to start putting down words which we hope will one day cause some briefcase-in-lap editor to overshoot his computer's stop by several stations.

Tackle the story from Michelle's viewpoint if you like, or switch from character to character in successive sections. But work always from within the character, a task which our spade-work will have made easier.

You will write for a minimum of an hour each day, with time added for the numerous pitiful little devices we employ in order to put off the plunge.

Come hell or high water, in spite of measles, growing spouses and visitations from relatives, you will undertake this daily stint.

Follow these directions, and sure as fewer calories mean less fat, you will one day find yourself with the completed first draft of a novel.

Since your publisher, if you find one, will change whatever title you put on it, we'll indulge in some literary thievery and call the opus "Under Two Flags."

Your book may never land between covers, since the competition is tough. But, my, how proud you will be of Michelle, Peter, Pamela and yourself!

CAP BADGES worn by Canadian Scottish in two wars are shown by Major A. M. MacLennan. The lower one is the newest. It is larger by inclusion of 16 maple leaves, commemorating the 16th Battalion, famed in First World War. The major helped create the regiment's motto, "Ready for the Fray."

IT'S MORE OF SAME... CLOUD AND RAIN

After four days of cloudy, showery weather, Victorians can look for another day or two of showery, cloudy weather.

Gonzales Hill weather station predictions are for much of the same sort of weather as has been with us all June.

Winds should be freshening up to about 25-mile-an-hour southwesterlies, and there is a small craft warning out for Juan de Fuca Strait.

$7 Million Housing Complex Proposed For University Land

By AD KENT

Three high-rise apartment blocks in a complex of landscaped townhouses are suggested for the development of 35.5 acres of endowment lands at University of Victoria.

The proposed plan is a revision of an earlier concept for developing natural land at Lansdowne campus for revenue purposes and was received by the university today from Vancouver architects Fred Thornton, Hollingsworth and Barry V. Downs.

It was going before a university development board meeting today and likely will be forwarded to Uvic board of governors. A representative group of the upper Lansdowne-Cedar Hill Cross Road community, which has had discussions with the development board, will be shown the plan later.

NATURAL CONTOURS
Its cost could be as high as $7,000,000.

In broad terms, the plan takes advantage of natural contours and tree growth on the land, which rises gently to a maximum of about 250 feet in the area between Foul Bay Road and the Saanich-Oak Bay boundary. All of the area lies within Oak Bay.

It is proposed that three apartment blocks of unspecified height—which could be determined later—be built in a group on about eight acres of the lower-lying land.

Suggested grouping of town houses is on an 8.5 acre block east of Foul Bay and the remaining acreage west to the Saanich boundary.

Apartment blocks would likely be no higher than the highest point of land in the area, or approximately 100 feet.

PAIRED UNITS

The architectural concept is for paired units of one-story town houses, built of white masonry, cedar shake roofs and stained natural woodwork. They would be laid out according to contours so that view would always be preserved where possible.

Their appearance would be in keeping with other single-family development in the area.

There would probably be sufficient revenue from the 200 town houses to maintain the entire development, leaving most of the apartment revenue for university purposes.

ORNAMENTAL TREES

Improvement to grounds would include pools, ornamental tree plantings, screening of parking areas and an access street off Foul Bay Road.

There would be a forested buffer area separating houses on Gibbs Road from the town houses.

One Beer Enough For 60-Day Stay In the Calabos

A driver who told police he'd had one beer, then fell over, to-day was sentenced to 60 days for impaired driving and driving without a licence.

Carl Baker, of the Drake Hotel, pleaded guilty to both charges in city police court this morning.

He was arrested Wednesday evening by the same constable who had served him with a notice of suspension the day before.

Baker was paced for three blocks on Shelburne about 8:30 p.m. Wednesday evening, and in order to stop him police had to pull up alongside his car with red lights and siren operating.

He leaned against a tree when he got out of the car, and told the arresting constable he had only one beer.

Then he fell over.

Baker has been previously convicted for impaired driving and driving while intoxicated.

Magistrate William Ostler sentenced him to 45 days for impaired driving and 15 days for driving while under suspension.

He also prohibited him from driving anywhere in Canada for 15 months.

'READY FOR THE FRAY'

By HUMPHRY DAVY

There's one man sure to be on parade when the battle-honoured Canadian Scottish, commemorating its 50th anniversary, marches through the city Saturday.

He is 71-year-old Major Alexander M. MacLennan, 1121 Reynolds Road, who with Norman Cameron of White Rock, provided the regiment with its Gaelic motto, Deas Guath, meaning, "ready for the fray." It's a motto which the unit lived up to in two world wars.

Mr. MacLennan served as an officer with the 16th Battalion in the First World War and with the first and second battalions in the Second World War.

He will march with the veterans when the Canadian Scottish parade to the Cenotaph on Belleville at 8 p.m. An hour earlier, the unit will participate in a ceremonial parade at Bastion Square where Mayor R. B. Wilson will confer the freedom of the city on the regiment.

'WOULDN'T MISS IT'

"I wouldn't miss the parade for anything," he said. "It's the best regiment in Canada. A total of 5,491 men passed through the unit in the First World War."

The story of how the unit got its motto begins when the 16th Battalion was sailing overseas aboard the Andonia in 1914.

The battalion was then composed of men from four highland regiments—the 50th Regiment (Gordons), Victoria; the Seaforth Highlanders, Vancouver; the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, Hamilton, Ont.; and the Cameron Highlanders, Winnipeg.

The men presented a curious spectacle. They each wore their own tartan and regimental badges.

ASKED FOR MOTTO

Lt.-Col. R. G. E. Leckie of Vancouver, the unit's first commanding officer, who was anxious to bring uniformity to the battalion, asked Col. H. M. Urquhart, then a lieutenant, to provide the unit with a motto.

Accountant Bill Luney Dies at 42

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon for Bill Luney, son of the late William Luney, co-founder of Luney Bros. and Hamilton Construction Ltd.

He died in hospital Wednesday, age 42.

Mr. Luney, who was born and educated in Victoria, was an army veteran of the Second World War and belonged to Uplands Golf Club and Victoria Chess Club.

He was also a past chairman of the Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants of B.C. He was employed as an accountant by Byron Price Ltd.

He is survived by the widow Doreen and daughters Laurie and Lesley at home, 1738 Green Oaks Terrace; mother, Mrs. Edith Luney; two brothers, Harold and Arthur, a half brother Alfred, all of Victoria, and another brother, Elwood, in California.

But the young officer, although of highland origin, didn't know Gaelic, and turned to Mr. MacLennan and Mr. Cameron, then serving as privates, to work out a motto. They were both well versed in the language.

"We went into a huddle," said Mr. MacLennan, "and suggested four mottoes, especially recommending Deas Guath. It was accepted without question."

The cap badge was designed by Roy Sachs of Vancouver, killed in action later in the war.

In the First World War, Maj. MacLennan rose from private to the rank of captain. In 1916 he was wounded twice in the legs, but returned to the front in 1917 as an intelligence officer. He was awarded the MC and Bar.

In the Second World War, he served as a major with the first and second battalions.

His son Lt.-Col. Donald S. MacLennan, now taking a course at the staff college at Camberley, England, also served with the Canadian Scottish.

Fund Launched For Team Travel

Premier W. A. C. Bennett today opened a fund to pay ferry fares for young Vancouver Island sports teams with a $100 contribution.

An appeal for the Island Athletic Fund was launched after talks between government and private sports officials broke off in chaos.

The government's ferry authority dropped its offer of weekend group fares June 1.

Local sportsmen protested that it now costs almost double to finance team trips to and from the mainland.

Mr. Bennett refused to change the ferry decision, but instead launched a public appeal for bona fide sports groups.

ENCOURAGEMENT

"I want to do everything to encourage these young people and I am asking citizens who want to help the teams to contribute," Mr. Bennett said.

Mr. Bennett said that to allow weekend group rates would seriously hurt Vancouver Island's tourist trade.

So many groups are using the cut rates on weekends that the ferries become overcrowded, he said.

But bona fide sports groups account for only about two per cent of the group traffic, he said, and these are the people who deserve public support.

The premier's bid came after a meeting earlier this morning failed to bring about a solution.

DECLINE CHAIR

Mr. Bennett's executive assistant, W. C. Budd, suggested that Social Credit MLAs Waldo, Skillings and J. Donald Smith chair the fund drive, but the two Victoria members withdrew after it was suggested this would give the fund a political connotation.

Doug Fletcher, president of the Sports Council of Greater Victoria, who was at the meeting, said afterwards that the only answer was a government subsidy or special permits for sports groups to get lower fares.

He said the public would not support another fund appeal. As much as $14,000 would be needed each year, he said.

Mr. Fletcher said it was strange that there would be room on the ferries for groups who paid their own way, but not enough room if they had cut fares.

Trail Folk Are Sure Maple Tree Will Grow

Sixty members of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce flew to Trail Wednesday, returning that night with a six-foot maple and an 80-pound bag of fertilizer.

Making their second annual "Get Acquainted with B.C." trip, the Victorians were presented with the red maple and the fertilizer at a dinner given by their hosts, the Trail Chamber of Commerce.

The tree is to be planted in Victoria as a symbol of Victoria-Trail friendship.

Earlier the Victorians toured the Cominco smelter, refinery and plant where the fertilizer was manufactured.

The tree and fertilizer were flown back to Victoria Wednesday night.

This morning, Chamber president E. E. Pearman presented the gifts from Trail to Roderick Clack, head of the City's Special Projects branch.

Mr. Clack consulted his tree list for Centennial Square and specified a spot north of the planned fountain as the site for the "little bit of Trail."

Hand Carts Rejected By City Hall

An embarrassed Victoria city finance committee today turned down an application by two men to peddle ice cream and balloons on city streets and in the parks.

Philippe Argenti and Lacio Cicogna said they would use a rubber-wheeled hand cart that met all sanitary and health requirements.

But committee replied pointing out that a city bylaw prohibits mobile sales units on city streets.

"I wonder why they applied when it's obviously against our bylaw," mused Ald. Curtis.

BIG EXCEPTION

"Well, you made one exception to the bylaw in the case of the Taste-Free mobile cart, and I'm afraid that's going to haunt you for a long time to come," city manager Dennis Young reminded the committee.

Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson, who joined Mayor R. B. Wilson in ardent but unsuccessful opposition to the council concession to Taste-Free, said it has drawn numerous complaints.

She indicated that she will consider a motion to withdraw the Taste-Free annual trades licence when it comes up for renewal next year—a move that would require unanimous consent of council.

FRIDAY MEETINGS

Victoria Lions Club: Empress Hotel, noon; Denis Giew, "Wine, Women and Song."

TOPICS of the DAY

The following fifth Garry Oak group boy scouts have been presented with proficiency badges: hilding, Rodney May, Paul Thomas; swimming, Brian Johnson; rescue, David Attkin, Bill Campbell, Paul Thomas, Clayton Restall, Brian Johnson; "A" cord, Bill Campbell, Rick Baker and Chris Bruce.

David Barnett Harrison, son of Barnett Harrison, of 2030 Blackwood, Victoria, will receive a Bachelor of Education degree from Seattle Pacific College during commencement ceremonies in Seattle Opera House on Sunday.

One of 139 spring quarter graduates, David majored in language, arts and social studies. He will be eligible to participate in the 1964 commencement.

Ask The Times

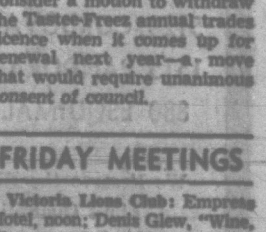

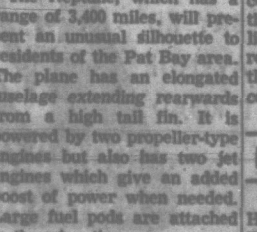

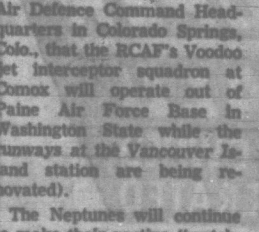

Q.—Could you tell me on what figures Prime Minister Pearson bases his assertion that only one third of Canadians are of British lineage?—C.M.

A.—According to the 1961 census (the latest official comprehensive survey), out of a total population of 23,545,597 persons, 7,964,699 were of British origin. This is 43%.

Q.—Will you please tell me when Enrico Caruso, the great Italian tenor voice died and what caused his death?—P.S.

A.—The Great Caruso died at pleurisy at Naples, Aug. 2, 1921 at the age of 48.

Unions to Aid Strike-Idled

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Federation of Labour is seeking $100,000 a week in donations to pay for workers idled by the dispute at the MacMillan Bloedel and Powell River Limited plant at Port Alberni.

Top federation officials met Wednesday and decided to ask member unions to assess their 100,000 members one dollar a week or a dollar a month. They also decided to take the dispute to the national and international level.

More than 3,000 workers at the Port Alberni plant are idle because of the strike of 60 office workers seeking higher wages and a union shop. The 3,000 workers refused to cross office workers picket lines.

Union Man Flies East To College

While Canada's young students are enjoying summer holidays, the nation's union leaders are busy with studies.

The second of two seven-week sessions of the second annual Labor College of Canada begins Monday in Montreal.

Flying out of Victoria Saturday is the third of three Vancouver Island students to attend this year.

John Nicol (Retail Food and Drug Clerks Union, Local 1518, secretary) will join Harry G. Anderson, a CBRT member, and Frank Kutney, Jordan River, of the IWA.

Mr. Anderson is a driver with Vancouver Island Coach Lines, and Mr. Kutney is a 33-year-old logger.

All are attending on $1,000 scholarships provided by unions. They will live in at the college, which uses the facilities of the University of Montreal and McGill University.

Temporary Job For Cedar Hill

Oak Bay works committee Tuesday night recommended spending $2,000 to $3,000 for temporary improvement of Cedar Hill Cross Road between the Saanich border and the CTVI property near Crestview.

Engineer Geoffrey White said the road is in such disrepair it is hazardous.

A long-range plan for Cedar Hill Cross Road is a double highway with boulevard in between. Work on this could start anytime within the next three years, but not this year.

The committee also recommended that the Uplands Golf Club pay the cost of moving its fence further back off Cadboro Bay Road, as it is located on municipal property.

The fence is to be moved to make room for widening of the remainder of Cadboro Bay Road next winter.

600 DELEGATES

Odd Fellows Coming For 100th Birthday

More than 600 delegates to IOOF grand lodge convention will help Victoria Lodge No. 1 celebrate its centenary next week.

The annual meeting will draw Odd Fellows from across B.C., visitors from Alberta and the state of Washington, plus international IOOF sovereign grand master C. Everett Murphy, of Kingfisher, Okla.

Meetings for men's and women's sections of the fraternal organization will be held Monday through Thursday at Lodge No. 1 rooms, 1232 Douglas, and at Empress Hotel.

The original lodge here was an offshoot of California lodges, which granted the first charter, March 10, 1864.

The present building was erected by the lodge in 1879 and later was expanded to include the rest of the block north to Johnson Street.

Among the early members of the lodge was the city's first mayor, Thomas Harris, and among later men of note is ex-cabinet minister Herbert Anscombe.

Objectives of the lodge, although changing with the times and the relationship of individuals to the welfare state, are educational scholarships, welfare, relief in distress and mutual benevolence for members.

Lodges also send underprivileged children to summer camp at White Rock, provide a home for aged persons and provide school children with scholarships to visit the United Nations in New York.

Daily business sessions are closed, but the convention includes social events to which guests are invited. A banquet will be held at 7 p.m. Monday in Crystal ballroom, a social evening will be arranged Wednesday, also in the Empress, and a final banquet and ball Thursday at 7 in the Empress will close the convention.

A special feature of the social evening will be a skit based on contents of Lodge No. 1's 100-year-old minute book.

The centennial nature of the meetings will be marked by a ribboned medallion to be given to each delegate.

Organized sightseeing, museum and marine life tours will be available for those who want to take part.

New Chrysler Road Safety Program Set

WINDSOR—A new and improved program to promote traffic safety across Canada by providing driver education vehicles at no cost to approved schools has been announced by Ron W. Todgham, president, Chrysler Canada Ltd.

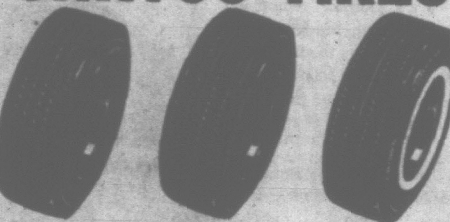

The nation-wide undertaking, which closely parallels a similar Chrysler program announced today in the United States, will make Chrysler-built cars available at no cost in whatever numbers are required to qualified schools having approved driver education courses. The vehicles will be provided through the 700 Chrysler dealers in Canada, Mr. Todgham said.

The program is scheduled to take effect shortly after the beginning of the school year this autumn.

Microwave Project Announced by BCT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Plans for immediate construction of a $1,400,000 microwave system between Prince Rupert, Terrace and Kitimat to handle additional circuits to the lower mainland were announced today by B.C. Telephone Company.

H. F. Urquhart, vice-president of the operations, said the new radio system, to be completed by mid-1965, will meet growth in the area and provide an important alternate communications route.

He said the new system will be able to connect with the company's tropospheric scatter system now in service from Alaska, connecting with Vancouver Island and the lower mainland. It will also have connections from Prince Rupert eastward to the lower mainland.

Bob Precht, producer of "The Ed Sullivan Show," speaks fluent Russian. He learned the language while serving with U.S. Navy intelligence.

IN THE KOOTENAYS

Valley of the Swans Is B.C. Spectacular

Geese, ducks and swans announced their return to the Kootenays in the spring with a honk and a flap.

They lingered awhile, nested, then departed with the same honking refrain.

The scene was captured by photographer Bernard H. Atkins in the film "Valley of the Swans," produced by the provincial department of recreation and conservation, and previewed Wednesday at the National Film Board theatre.

The half-hour wild life documentary, 19 months in the making, covers the four seasons of the year.

AT DUTCH LAKE

Filmed in the wild life preserve at Dutch Lake the Disney-like close-up shots of blue herons, red-wing blackbirds, ducks, porcupines, field mice and beetles, show birds and animals in their natural habitat. It was spectacular.

Even the change of seasons can be felt as the wind sweeps down through the Kootenay valley and whisks away the seed pods.

The fluted tune of the red-wing blackbird, and other songsters, are incorporated in the sound track from recordings made by Mrs. Grace Bell, who spends every spare minute beside her parabolic reflector and tape recorder.

The honking of Canadian geese passing overhead are from recordings made by naturalist, Dr. W. W. H. Gunn of Toronto.

Narrator is Bob Switzer and script was written by H. P. McKeever.

Charles Guiget of the provincial museum, Robert Harris of the Canadian Wild Life Services and government biologist Glen Smith assisted with the production of the film.

Power Boatmen Receive Awards For Sea Studies

Members of the Victoria Power Squadron received competition awards and training certificates at the annual banquet in the Ingraham Hotel Wednesday night.

A winter of study earned members certificates for courses including navigation, advance piloting and seamanship and marine electronics.

Winner of the squadron's predicted log race was Eth Minaker who skipped Winward.

Rear-Admiral W. M. Landy more presented navigation certificates to D. M. Boyd, J. R. Genge, E. T. W. Nash, H. M. Brundridge and Arthur Greenwood.

Junior navigation certificates were given by instructor Capt. Peter Thomas to Mrs. Viola Caton, Mrs. Grace Foulkes, Michael Fraser, Mrs. Jessie Lodge, Alec James and Mrs. Lillian Rivers.

Advance piloting and seamanship certificates were awarded to Reece Adamson, G. D. Browning, Harry Crosby, A. I. Dallain, Joe Dill, V. W. Griffin, J. S. Houston, Rex Kember, Eth Minaker, W. S. Plater, Alec Rawlings, George Reid, Alec James, Howard Schemilt and Mrs. K. D. Storie.

Substitute Drummer Off With Beatles

LONDON (UPI) — Hospital officials said today Ringo Starr, the musical Beatle with tonsillitis, was "a little better."

"He is managing to be quite cheerful," a spokesman said.

Starr, the Beatles' drummer, was taken ill Wednesday. His mop-haired group left for a Copenhagen appearance today with Jimmy Nicol, 24, as the substitute drummer.

PUBLISHER SPEAKS:

One Defence Head Wrong

OTTAWA (CP)—Richard S. Malone, publisher of the Winnipeg Free Press and a wartime brigadier, said today integration of the defence headquarters command structure is tremendously forward-looking but may be jeopardized by the "supreme principle" of a single chief of staff.

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda indicated today the Kremlin may be thinking of formally severing ties between the Communist parties of the Soviet Union and China.

Dief Withdraws
Implication

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Diefenbaker acceded in the Commons today to a request by Speaker Alan Macnaughton to withdraw an implication that third-party support for the government was bought by last year's pay increase for MPs.

He told the Commons defence committee that the armed forces can be more effectively directed by a civilian-military defence council than by a single officer. The council should be directly under the minister instead of the chief of the defence staff.

Mr. Malone, one-time special assistant to the late Col. J. L. Ralston, wartime defence minister, said: "If you start off with this one error, the whole system could break down."

No committee members disputed his view. Mr. Malone was left cooling his heels for 33 minutes before the 24-member committee got a quorum of 13 to begin the hearing.

Mr. Malone said that to establish anything in the nature of a commander-in-chief, regardless of title, would be a fatal error.

CREATE A 'GOD'

Creation of a single chief might be creation of a "god" for the armed forces. The single chief might gather only yes-men around him and, no matter how able, make serious errors of judgment.

The job was far too big for any one person.

Defence decisions and authority should be based on a defence council of civilian and military personnel with the minister participating in the decisions and answerable to parliament for them.

Mr. Malone said the commander-in-chief system has failed repeatedly in recent years in Canada and elsewhere.

DISHPAN RED

Water-Filled
Undies Cool
Spacemen

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A suit of long underwear ridged with 144 tiny water pipes could prevent astronauts from getting "dishpan red" all over during a space flight.

Manned spacecraft centre engineers are developing a water-cooled undergarment to replace the oxygen cooling system now used in space suits.

In past flights, astronauts have emerged from the space suit dripping with perspiration, looking as if they had spent hours in a dishpan.

Research into conductive cooling for space suits has been led by a young British doctor, John Billingham, who first saw the possibilities of such a system as a flight surgeon in the RAF.

The British, leaders in this area, have been testing water-cooled suits since 1962.

Until May 20, tests here were conducted with store-purchased long underwear with the plastic water pipes sewn in the material by engineers.

A factory-made suit built to specifications was put to use in an experiment with engineer Gil Freedman wearing the garment and walking a treadmill for an hour at a time.

He wore the water-cooled underwear under a cumbersome and heavy Mercury space suit. Despite the break walk and the heavy clothing, his skin temperature stayed at 82 degrees, nine degrees below normal, which was satisfactory.

U.K. Nabs
Arch Foe
Of Castro

(Times News Services)

NASSAU — Manuel (Manolo) Ray, anti-Castro rebel leader who had vowed to be fighting in Cuba May 20, was one of eight persons picked up Monday by the Royal Navy destroyer Decoy in the Bahamas.

This was confirmed today by a police official who declined to permit use of his name.

Six Cubans and two American photographers were taken off the Decoy today.

They were fined $14 each and freed. They planned to return to Miami.

A police official finally confirmed growing speculation that one of the Cubans was Ray, the dapper, 39-year-old head of the Cuban revolutionary junta.

Ray, first public works minister in the Fidel Castro regime, defected after 1 1/2 years in the post and began building an anti-Castro underground. He fled to Florida in a small boat in November, 1960.

FIGHT AGAIN

For the last year, he had persistently promised the Cuban exile colony that he would be fighting again on Cuban soil—or be dead—by May 20.

The two Americans taken from a fast, armed launch after a chase by the Decoy Monday were Andrew St. George of New York, a free lance press photographer, and Tom Dunkin, also a New York photographer and a former Florida newspaper man.

UNABLE TO LAND

Ray's presence in the party meant that he apparently was unable to make good on his promise to infiltrate Cuba by May 20.

The Decoy took five of the eight persons off a small launch after a 14-mile chase off Anguilla Cay in the Bahamas, 30 miles north of the coast of Cuba. The three others were captured on the island by a landing party.

The launch carried guns, 1,000 rounds of ammunition and a large supply of fuel, along with equipment of the photographers. British authorities assumed that the party had planned to raid Cuba.

BULLETINS

Medalist, Champion Defeated

The medalist and defending champion took a tumble today in the semifinals of the Victoria and District women's golf championship at Gorge Vale.

Medalist Mrs. Shirley Naysmith lost 1 up to outsider Mrs. Beryl Patterson. Mrs. Margaret Todd, 11 times champion and winner last year, lost by an identical score to Mrs. Joan Lawson.

Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Lawson tee off at 10 a.m. Friday at Gorge Vale for the championship.

Field of Eight for Belmont Stakes

NEW YORK (UPI)—The field for Saturday's $125,000 Belmont Stakes at Aqueduct was swelled to eight today with the announcement that Herbert Allen will enter Shook and Determined and George D. Widener would send Brace Lad against prohibitive favorite Northern Dancer.

Previously listed to stop E. P. Taylor's Canadian speedball, Northern Dancer's bid for the first triple crown since Citation in 1948 were Hill Rise, Roman Brother, Quadrangle and Orientalist. If all eight go, the winner will earn a Belmont record of $110,850.

Canadian Leads In Rich Golf Event

RYE, N.Y. (UPI)—Jerry Magee, a towering shot-maker from Toronto, fired a six-under-par 35-31—66 today to take the early first round lead in the $100,000 Thunderbird golf classic.

The Canadian carded an eagle and four birdies and never strayed over par and had a two-stroke edge over Kel Nagle, the rugged Australian who shot a 34-34—68.

Vancouver Local Rejects IWA Terms

VANCOUVER (CP)—The 7,000-member Vancouver Local (1-217) of the International Woodworkers of America (IWA) in a referendum ballot has rejected conciliation officer proposals for settlement of the union's coast-forest industry contract dispute.

Local president Sid Thompson said today the proposal was rejected by a majority of several hundred in a heavy vote. He said the vote indicates dissatisfaction with regional leaders who, Thompson said, "have been breaking their necks selling an unsatisfactory proposition."

Liverpool Scores 14-0 Soccer Win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Showing a dazzling brand of soccer, Liverpool—England's first division champions—swamped the San Francisco All-Star team 14-0 Wednesday night at Kezar Stadium.

Alfred Arrowsmith scored five goals for the visitors and Ian St. John four in a wild display of precise handling positional play that found the San Franciscans hopelessly outclassed. The score at halftime was 8-0.

'NEANDERTHAL'

Goldwater Win
Scares Europe

LONDON (AP)—Senator Barry Goldwater's Republican primary victory in California brought disapproval and dismay in the European press today.

"It is not important who finally stops Barry, but who made it possible for him to go all that way," says the Christian Democrat Volkskrant of Amsterdam. "Goldwater is proof of a not completely sound political climate."

The paper says editorially that Goldwater's victory is "a symptom of degeneration and devaluation in the Republican party."

The British view was summed up by The Times which says:

"The thought that he had even the faintest chance of reaching the White House would be enough to shake faith in the maturity and stability of American politics."

"The sight of a major party endorsing and promoting a man so blatantly out of touch with reality, so wild in his foreign policy, so backward in his domestic ideas and so inconsistent

Major Rivers
Reach Crests

Resources Minister Ray Williston said today the chances of a major B.C. flood are 10 to one against and lessening every day.

He made the statement despite growing concern about flooding in north central B.C. Flooding on the Skeena and Bulkley rivers has cut roads and rail lines and forced evacuations and closing of schools.

However, provincial officials believe these two rivers may now have reached their crests and the water is already receding.

FRASER BIG WORRY

Major concern now is whether or not the Fraser River will flood its banks in the Lower Mainland.

Mr. Williston said current flooding is mostly localized and in areas which get flooded every year.

"The major problem areas are the Kootenays and the lower Fraser," he said. "The situation doesn't give us cause for alarm yet."

"Chances of a flood of major proportions are reduced to about one in 10," he said.

Mr. Williston said this chance gets longer every day.

The only thing that could reverse the situation, he added, would be a period of "hot rain"—very warm temperatures and plenty of rain.

The level of the Fraser continues to rise at Prince George with high temperatures forecast for the interior today.

However, cooler air is expected in the area tonight.

OTTAWA (CP)—Resources Minister Laing said today he thinks the federal government would be prepared to help with flood relief for British Columbia if the B.C. government applies for it.

The highways department said that the Bulkley River has dropped a foot at Smithers and the Skeena at Kitwanga is down 14 inches from Wednesday.

Highway 16—only east-west route across the northern half of the province—is cut by floods 80 miles west of Smithers and the Canadian National Railway line is also washed out a further 10 miles west.

The Nechako River overflowed its banks near Prince George Wednesday closing a school at Cottonwood Island and forcing residents to evacuate their homes.

Three families have been evacuated at Terrace and 30 more are preparing to leave.

Six families left their homes near Merritt when the Coldwater River swept away a farmhouse and a barn.

At the Portage Mountain dam site on the Peace River 30 trucks were called in to move 70,000 tons of sand which the rising river threatens to wash away.

The sand is for footings of the dam.

PAYE WAY FOR MERGER?

Liberal Constitution
Changed for NDP

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—Well-informed political sources say the Liberals have made some changes in their party structure in line with requirements laid down in top-level talks with the New Democrats for possible merger of the two parties.

These sources give the following account of discussions between the two parties:

The requirements were spelled out for the Liberals after a meeting last December between Finance Minister Gordon, Liberal national organizer Keith Davy, New Democratic Leader T. C. Douglas, Deputy Leader Douglas Fisher and NDP Vice-President David Lewis.

Prime Minister Pearson was to have attended but was ill. He had agreed to the talks to explore a basis for co-operation between the minority Liberal government and the New Democrats for this Parliament and possible eventual union of the two parties after the next federal election.

Apart from generally similar views on a legislative program, the New Democrats insisted that the Liberal party needed certain structural changes before any large number of their followers could agree to a merger.

EPIDEMIC
At 'Day
Of Destiny'

(Times News Service)

ABERDEEN—The total number of cases in Aberdeen's typhoid epidemic rose to 318 today, and the city health officer warned the disease may sweep through the British Isles.

During the night 17 more persons were admitted to hospitals, making a total of 275 confirmed cases and 43 suspected.

"Today is the probable watershed," said city health officer Ian MacQueen, "the probable dividing line, the day of Aberdeen's destiny."

The incubation period of typhoid is about 15 days and the outbreak was discovered two weeks ago.

"From today and certainly from Friday, it will be possible to say that most new admissions caught the disease after we knew that typhoid existed in the city."

"If there is no reduction in new cases today and tomorrow, then dirt, carelessness, ignorance and apathy will have triumphed over all our efforts."

In that case, Dr. MacQueen said, the epidemic "could become a national danger."

New Tack Taken By Labor Union

Organized labor leveled a new blast at MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Co. today.

And plans shaped for an emergency meeting to deal with Alberni Valley economy.

The shaft was aimed by the B.C. Federation of Labor through Lands and Forests minister Ray Williston and it accuses the giant MB-PR forest complex of being above the government in its relations with labor.

Meanwhile, Labor Minister Leslie Peterson named conciliation officer W. T. McLaughlin as government representative at a meeting called for Saturday at Port Alberni Athletic Hall by J. Whittall, chairman of Alberni Valley Labor Emergency Committee.

The committee is concerned about an existing office workers' strike that has killed most pulp-lumber employees in the valley, and the threat of an International Woodworkers' of America strike that could seriously impair the whole coast economy.

WIRED MINISTER

B.C. Federation of Labor entered the picture by wiring Mr. Williston regarding tree farm hearings in the Terrace-Kitimat area. One of the applicants for licence is MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River.

Federation president Russell St. Elol asked Mr. Williston to reopen hearings to allow labor to state its case.

Past record of MB-PR labor relations policy warrants this, he said, and should eliminate the corporation from tree farm bidding.

"We believe MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Co. forfeited all rights to any consideration," the telegram said.

New Insecticide Easy On Fish, Experts Say

By H. A. RICHMOND
Entomologist, B.C. Loggers' Association

A new insecticide approximately one-sixteenth as toxic to fish as DDT, yet lethal to certain insect pests, will be used in a forest experiment in British Columbia this year.

The insecticide is Phosphamidon and is the most promising material yet discovered in a long and continuing search by both the forest industry and the government for a substitute for DDT.

Decisions to use Phosphamidon stem from trials undertaken on Vancouver Island in 1963 by the federal Departments of Forestry and Fisheries and the B.C. Loggers' Association. In these tests, colonies of hemlock looper feeding on trees and fish held in aquaria and open pens in streams were sprayed by helicopter and were kept under constant observation for the following 46 days.

KILL WAS HIGH

The insect kill was phenomenally high. There was no ill effect whatever on the fish during this prolonged exposure. The indication is that

TSIMSHIAN NAVY CLAIMS FIRST SUBMARINE

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Cmdr. J. L. Panabaker and the crew of the destroyer escort HMCS Margaree returned to Esquimalt this week with the knowledge that the white man was not the inventor of the first submarine.

The honor of having invented the first submersible craft is claimed by the Tsimshian Indians at Hartley Bay, 500 miles north of Victoria, who were visited by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes aboard the Margaree last week.

They told the captain that their "submarine" worked successfully for several years until disaster overtook its crew during a demonstration. This all took place long before the arrival of the first white man.

Ed. Clifton, tribal historian, explained that a huge log was first hollowed out and then shaped like a whale. Two men entered the craft through a hatch secured from the inside.

Stone 'Sinkers'

Cedar ropes were attached to the craft's bow and stern and secured to two canoes fore and aft. Stones were used as weights to submerge the "whale submarine," which was towed underwater for short periods.

The underwater craft was even made to blow like a whale. This was done by stowing aboard a hot stone and placing it underneath a hole which was unplugged when the craft surfaced. A little sea water was let in.

Sons Get Ultimatum

AGASSIZ (CP) — Kent municipal council has given encamped Sons of Freedom Doukhobors an ultimatum.

Kent council has told the Doukhobors they must get off municipal land by July 15, or face prosecution. Council said Wednesday night it was worried about misuse of municipal lands, because residents were starting to think there was one law for the Doukhobors and another for ordinary citizens.

BOMB FOUND AT BASE OF QUEBEC MONUMENT

QUEBEC (CP) — Ten sticks of dynamite, bundled together and attached to a 10-foot fuse, were discovered today at the foot of the Boer War Monument, just inside the walls of Quebec City and in sight of the Legislature Building.

A home-made bomb was found at the same spot last weekend.

Police said the dynamite sticks were tied together with string and wrapped in a piece of cloth.

Apparently, police said, no attempt had been made to light the fuse. There was a detonator cap on the package.
